CHANGING THE TIMES

In grade school life was simple, yet seemed so complex. It was a time when putting our heads on our desks was considered a punishment, and doing homework was cool . . . oh, how things have changed.

School began after eight and not at the crack of dawn. After watching cartoons, a typical morning at the bus stop consisted of name calling, jumping over lunchboxes and throwing objects in the street for the bus to hit. Bus hierarchy went by grade — oldest in the back, youngest in the front. What our parents did not teach us we found written on the seat, window and in dirty notes on the floor.

Starting in fourth and fifth grade, fashion and appearance mattered. We wore Izod and Polo shirts, pin-striped jeans, monogrammed sweaters, parachute pants, Michael Jackson jackets, friendship pins and cutesy shoelaces. Every kid had the ability to rattle off the ultimate put-downs like “no doi,” “ooh burn,” “fry,” “gag me,” and “grody to the max.”

Every girl drew rainbows, clouds and hearts. Boys played with Star Wars action figures and Stomper 4x4's. Also popular were the old favorites Legos, Lincoln Logs, Erector Sets and Chinese jacks. Sticker collections were popular, especially the smelly and puffy ones. The Cabbage Patch doll craze started in elementary school along with roller skating parties, Grease, and putting folders up during a test to prevent our neighbors from cheating.

Every kid took art, music and gym — encountering for the first time feelings of competition, failure and success. Art boxes were a necessity as we made “stained glass windows,” paper turkeys and paper snowflakes. In music we learned to sing, tap out beats and play the recorder. A wide range of activities took place in gym, from climbing the cargo net to square dancing to playing soccer.

Recess was the most exciting part of the day as we dashed outside to be the first one to get a tetherball or a teeter totter. Throwing gravel and chasing some cute guy or girl added to the excitement. In the spring it was common to have two or three recess periods per day.

When school let out we went home for a snack, watched Tom and Jerry, and then played with friends until supper. In fact, we practically had the freedom of summer year round. However, we never thought of the day when we would exchange holding hands in a single file line for dodging traffic in the crowded halls of North Central.

Senior Shawn Brown amazes youngsters as he skillfully twists balloons into animals during the Mardi Gras at Camp Minikani.

Backpacking in Kentucky, Jen Brown and Barb Mahoney take a quick breather before heading down the trail to camp.

It's 3:00 p.m.! Anytime now students will dash out the doors to board their favorite mode of transportation — the big yellow twinkie.

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE

It's 6:30 A.M. in Indianapolis. All is quiet. Mothers, fathers, cats and dogs are sleeping peacefully. Who would be awake at this ungodly hour? A North Central student of course.

After downing a few caffeinated beverages, the typical N.C. student is ready to endure first period, in which he or she will do his/her homework for second period. This cycle is continued throughout the day.

Finally it is lunchtime and the student will take his/her own tray through the lunch line. Here the student may partake of anything from a chicken patty to a chuckwagon, or he can avoid all this and bring a brown bag lunch.

After lunch it's back to the books. Students now begin counting down the remaining periods until dismissal. The last period of the day seems endless as students anxiously await the sound of the electronic tone. From school, students scatter off to jobs, the library, Burger King, or home. Homework is generally put off for as long as possible. Thus the student's school day has come to a close, that is, until the next alarm.

LIFE

STUDENT

New faces. New friends. A new principal. New parking tags. New school spirit. Everywhere we look, the face of North Central is changing, and the students are changing along with it. Our school's unique diversity broadens our experience as we are travelling to new, exotic places, setting new trends, making new friends, getting new jobs, enjoying new hobbies, wearing new styles and just simply having more fun than ever before. Even our Friday nights have changed with new student cheering blocks at football games and mixers in the student center after every home game. The community's view of North Central has also changed. We are an enthusiastic, spirited body of students now that we have realized that it's time for a change.

Attempting to break the sound barrier, Abby Helmer and Kyla Guenin get warnings for exceeding the speed limit in Bloomington.

Relaxation Is The Key To A Successful Summer

What do the students of North Central do in the few months that they are away from the mind-wrenching atmosphere of school? Get ahead by studying for the upcoming year's courses, perhaps? Not quite. North Central students have a more laid back view of summer. Swimming, boating, basking in the sun and practically doing nothing sounds much better!

While some are forced to work during the summer, the more fortunate have better things to do- absolutely nothing! Of course getting a tan can not exactly be considered nothing, but there is one minor setback; you don't get paid while doing it! It's very relaxing all the same. All in all, the two month vacation gives students time to sit back and relax, enjoy each minute to the fullest, and forget all the worries and stresses of school.

A group of seniors enjoy a night out at Peggy Swearingin house showing off their patriotism for the Fourth of July.

Summer is a good time to make new friends. That is what Tiffany Leaman, Kristin Druckamiller and Allison Brown are doing.

Who doesn't go to N.C.? Fred Flintstone from Bedrock City decided to visit Kings' Island for the day and ran into a group of juniors from N.C.

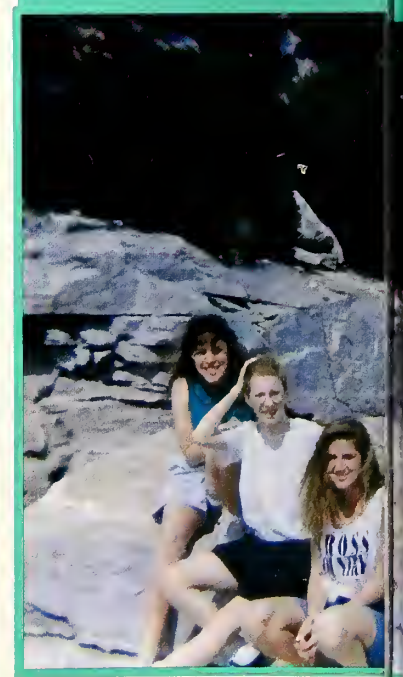

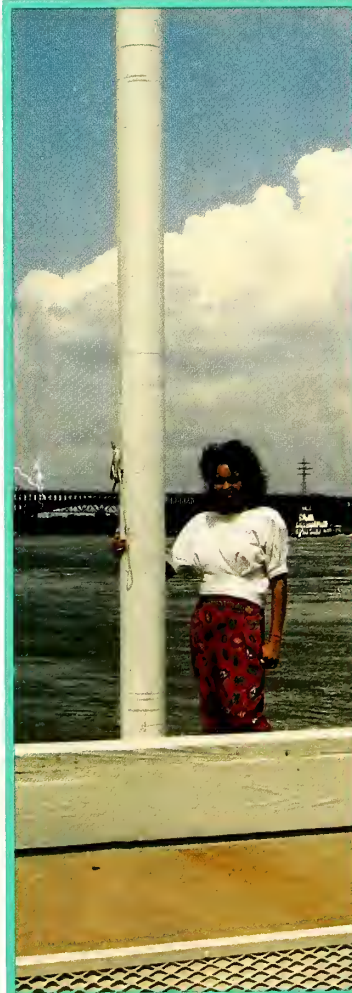

Dominique Nixon, Claire Hochman and Chris Farkas do the hula in the heat of the summer even though Indy isn't as nice as Hawaii.

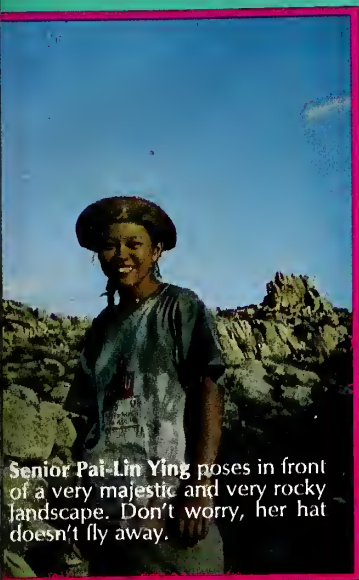

"A scenic view" with Peggy Swearingen, Mandy Burk, Kristine Jacklin, Stacy Hilgedag, Whitney Minnis, Molly McCarthy and Megan Lewis.

Sophomores Adam Newton and Pat Hogan go head to head in Amsterdam, Holland. Luckily, the lion is only stone.

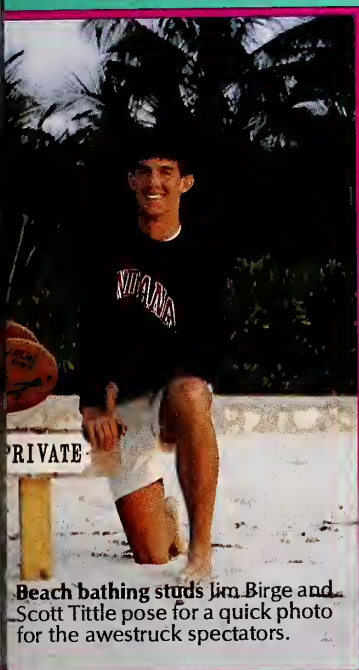

Not too far from home, senior Nikki Packer kicks back and enjoys the cool breeze and warm sun of St. Louis, Missouri.

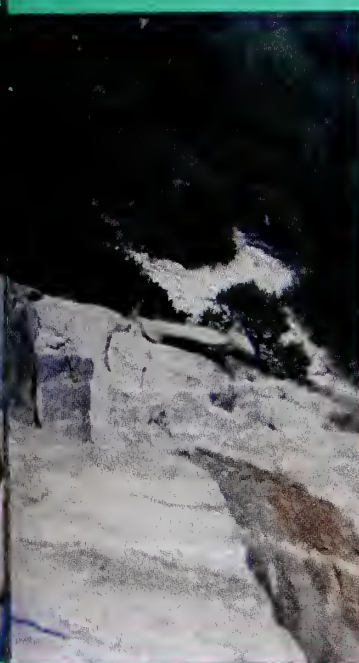

It Is A Small World After All

Senior Pai-Lin Ying poses in front of a very majestic and very rocky landscape. Don't worry, her hat doesn't fly away.

Travel, travel, travel. It seems like all of North Central traveled this year. From Europe to the Bahamas to the west coast, N.C. students saw the world and experienced many exciting adventures. It is the adventures like these which create the diversity of the students at North Central. As students see other parts of the world and our country, they attain new knowledge and friendships which teach them to be themselves, because they learn that there is only one of them in all the world. Each new land that an N.C. student sees contributes a small part to the personality of it's visitor. As more vacations come and go, the students at North Central will continue to see new areas of this world and these experiences will broaden their horizons and produce bright young adults ready to enter the real world.

Three mountain climbers, seniors Suzanne Faris, Sarah Rudy and Tory Upton attack the rocky landscape of Tucson, Arizona over spring break.

What monument is that? Uh . . . , maybe the Eiffel Tower? Dalia Brahmi and Suzi Spears experience Paris as they soak up French culture.

Who Do You Love, N.C.?

School is very time consuming and difficult, but North Central students always seem to find the time for romance. The start of a new school year creates many sparks which sometimes turn into flames, or, then again, they may become "dust in the wind." Those relationships that flourish can give a student not only many happy memories of their high school years, but also many remembrances of fights better left not spoken about. But, most important are the special friendships formed in these four years of high school. It is safe to say that all first dates don't turn into marriage and kids (well, maybe sometimes kids), but this doesn't mean that the relationship has failed. So, although all relationships aren't lifelong, or sometimes even weeklong, many provide students with the ability to respect one another (well, maybe some of them do).

Enjoying a relaxing night at home, "lovebirds" Laura North and Matt Pfiefer understand that friendship comes first.

Cute as can be are seniors Amy Alden and Phil Standish engaged in a friendly hug at a North Central tennis match.

What could be sweeter than Kenny Kerkhof and Nicole Lyndes? Absolutely nothing! Even at lunch, these two exemplify the value of love.

In a seemingly unromantic spot, the Dalt's parking lot, Jennette Hizer and Chris Jones prove that love is everywhere!

A friendly hug, don't worry Travis, between Beth Mosey and Mike Dunn show that girls and guys CAN be friends.

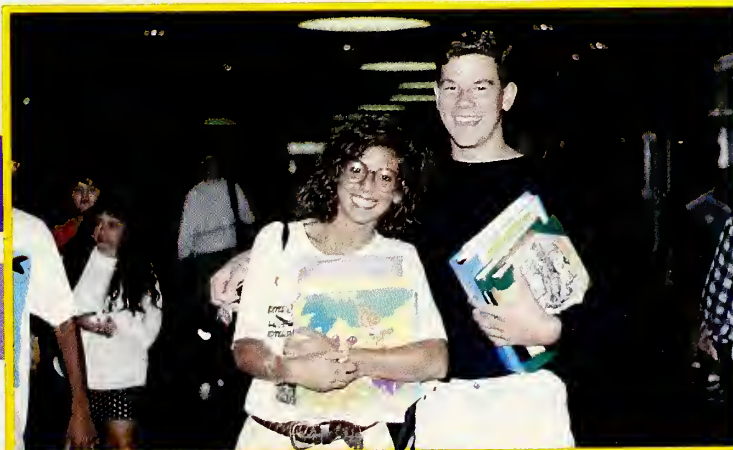

Coke is it! So is the relationship between Jenny Lauzenteheiser and Chris Laque. Hanging out is fun when you're with someone special.

Even in the cafeteria love is around. Charles Hill and his "main squeeze" stick together as they bravely make their way to their lunches.

In between classes seniors Laurie Nelson and Chris Farkas happily stop for a quick and enthusiastic hug and a picture.

Chillin' in the yearbook office are Woody Paik and Kristin Druckamiller, two seniors who know how to have fun at school.

Chris Wu and Julie Yount stop for a quick pic and a friendly hug in the hallowed halls of North Central. Where are you supposed to be?

Nichole Cable, a senior, finds a means of communicating with the outer world while in school. What would we do without phones?

Hanging out in the student center is a common thing to do. It is definitely the safest way to avoid the lunch ladies (as these girls know.)

Always the ladies man, chemistry teacher "Master Watson" creates a friendly atmosphere in his class with help from these three juniors.

Although Chris West looks like a normal student, he is actually suffering from a severe case of "senioritis," a disease which often plagues seniors.

Dr. White always finds the time amidst his schedule to chat with everyone. Here, he sits in the student center with some fine NC students.

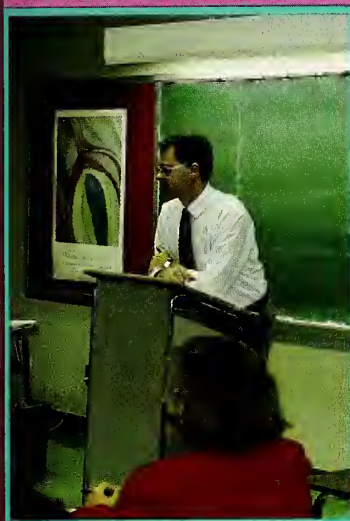

All Work And No Play? We Don't Think So!

High school constitutes four of the most important years of a person's life. The grades achieved, activities participated in and other achievements in school-related activities can make all the difference in someone's life.

One's high school career decides whether or not he/she will go on to college, and if so, the decision of where to go is always an important and traumatic thing. Most freshmen and sophomores are not concerned with their future educational plans, but juniors and seniors can think of nothing else.

All of this adds much stress to a student's academic career. Therefore, it is important to enjoy the time spent in school well, as much time as possible. Thanks to Dr. White's arrival this year, the students at N.C. had a lot more to be happier about. What a change!

Mr. Wiggins is an economics teacher with quite an eye for art. His taste in food is just as odd. (Had any Gummi Cheeseburgers lately Mr. W.?)

Seniors Celina Smith, Calina Harris, Tanya Cloud, Nikki Curry, Michelle Hart, Shelly Richardson and Kelli Akers take a moment to chat.

Dr. White and Linda Goldberg enthusiastically show their spirit and cheer on N.C.'s boys tennis team to a victory over Carmel.

And We'll Have Fun, Fun, Fun

Four years of high school includes lots of work, but also lots of good times. After coming into school, day after day, one learns that having fun is not only possible outside of school, but in school as well. These truly are the best years of one's life. There are weekend parties, school activities, sports teams and many other opportunities for a good time. It is important to take advantage of these opportunities, to relieve one's self of the tensions, anxieties and pressures of school. North Central students know how to have the most fun, too. Homecoming, Prom, Grad dance — these are all functions which North Central takes great pride in and at which students can have a grand time. The majority of NC enthusiastically agrees that North Central is not only an educational institution, but a place to have fun, too!

Jennifer Brown plays with a 4-month old wolf puppy. She volunteers at Wolf Park where people are allowed to play with the wolves.

Supporting the boys' tennis team are seniors Casey Ward and Lainie Wolfson. These buds helped to cheer the team on to victory over Carmel.

Struttin' her stuff at a fashion show in Jacobson's is senior Selena Chatmon. Hey Selena, are you having fun yet?

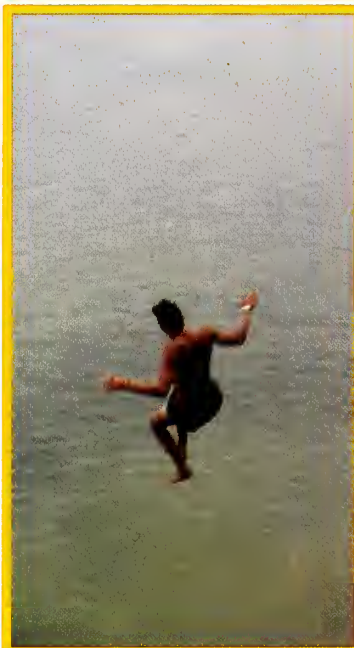

Oink, oink! Three little piggies, Nicole Ellis, Lisa Weinstein and Jennifer Goldblatt have a bit of fun.

Isn't this against the law? Adam Sharp, Mike Hilleary, Jeff Hester, Seth Jenkins and friend paint the wall to show their school spirit.

When there's extra time during semester tests, Tim Abrams, John Timble and John Wilkerson kick back and give their brains a rest.

Taking a ride along the beautiful waters of the Bahamas are Erik Barrett, Jim Birge and Scott Tittle. Looking good guys!

Are these two Hawaiian hula dancers? No, it's Abby Helmer and Sally Nicely at a luau over the summer.

Daredevil Mike Johnston, junior, courageously jumps off a cliff at Eagle Creek. What's next, Mike? Possibly a flying exhibition coming up?

A group of seniors and a former N.C. student catch the last rays of summer over Labor Day weekend at Laurie Nelson's house.

N.C.'s Sun Kissed "Student" Body Is Hot

After hours and hours of school work, a day in the sun can be most enjoyable for students. Activities such as scuba diving, snorkeling, wave-running and water skiing are just a few of the things that N.C. students like to do to have "fun in the sun."

Every vacation, students long to go to the beach and soak up some rays. Unfortunately, not everyone can go, but substitutes serve their needs just as well. Still, those students who do get to play in the sand and listen to the surf are envied by all. Not much compares to the warm sun rays hitting one's face and a cool breeze flowing through the air. And, wherever there's sun and sand, there's bound to be bodies! For some, this is the entire reason for going to the beach, but for all it serves as an enticing element. Allons' a la plage, N.C.! (Let's go to the beach, N.C.)

Beach bathing beauties, Kyla Guenin, Jenny Welsh and Shannon Hopp enjoy a hot Indianapolis day at the pool.

Tracey Gallion, Jenny Winkelmann, Laura Gilbride, Sharon Jenkins and a friend wait for their turn on a ride at a camp in Minnesota.

Ryan Hokanson, a junior, is coming in after a ride over the big, beautiful and cold waves of Lake Huron in Michigan.

When N.C. Does It, It's Done Right!

A long with having a diverse student body, the hobbies and activities each North Central student participates in is equally as unique and personalized. There are hundreds of hobbies and interests that are represented by the students at N.C. Each one carries a special meaning or creates an outlet for the student which is revealed at North Central through that student's involvement.

The new theme at N.C. this year, as incorporated by Dr. White and the administration, is "achievement through scholarship, honesty and respect" and this statement is very true. Those things that are lucky enough to receive the attention of N.C. students will always be of high quality. North Central is a school of perfection. When we do something, we want it done right and we don't stop until our highest goals are reached.

Pam Harville, a senior, shows her equestrian skills while galloping through the wild wilderness. Lions and tigers and bears, oh my!

Chris Butz, the happy little mountain climber in Louisiana, begs a passerby to pick him up. That's cheating, Chris!

Football players Derrick Mayes and Woody Paik, gear up for a winning year at a preseason scrimmage. You guys look pretty HOT!

Adam Sharp, a senior at N.C., and a friend from Brebeuf, pose with one of golf's greatest, the one and only, JACK NICKLAUS!

Being careful not to slip, Barb Mahoney rappells off a steep cliff to free fall in Kentucky over the summer.

Charlie Hunter obviously enjoys bikes, and he can even do some cool tricks! His talent can be witnessed in the Greenbriar parking lot.

Shelli Ross and Crystal Haynes help Lori Wilson (middle) celebrate her sweet sixteenth birthday over the summer.

Sophomores Jennifer Andreassen and Stephanie Covert pose in front of a hot white Corvette. Can sophomores drive yet?

Claire Hochman and Nikki Martin, friends since seventh grade, still have many years of good times ahead of them.

What do you get when a large group of friends get together to celebrate a birthday? Nothing but fun as shown by these N.C. students.

Fellow cross country runners Jenny Lawyer and Bridgit Singleton show that N.C.'s sports are not only competitive, but offer friendship as well.

Senior Lynne Naus and junior Wendy Bergida give each other a quick hug in the Noble Roman's parking lot after "pigging out" on pizza.

Call On N.C.

When You Need A Friend

Friendships. What would we do without them? A good friend has the ability to make us laugh when we are sad, help us through hard times and make the good times even better. North Central has many advantages in being such a large school, and one of them is that there are many chances to form close friendships.

A large melting pot could describe N.C.'s student body, which comes from many different backgrounds, but still joins to form solid bonds of close relationships.

We meet freshman year, all confused and amazed by the fact that we made it to high school. Sophomore year is when we develop close friendships. Upon the approach of junior year, these friendships have broadened, and by the time we are seniors, some of the best friendships we will ever have, have already been formed.

Katie Moss, Carrie Brodey, Meg Smith, Rachel Ayres, Maggie Tittle, and Amy Cummins, freshmen, show their spirit at a N.C. tennis match.

A hug is a typical sign of a long friendship, and Tina Bongfeldt and Katie Rice, seniors, engage in one for the camera.

Cathy Hunter, Jennifer Hood and Alysa Adkins horse around downtown at the Canterbury Hotel. Wait, are you 21 yet?

N.C. Does A Body Good!

Food, food, food. It is an element we cannot live without, nor would we if we could. Not only does it serve as a means of satisfying hunger, but also as a way of communicating and socializing as well.

The North Central cafeteria is a prime example of these functions of food. Sure, maybe not ALL students are daring enough to actually eat the food, but they do enjoy the time away from class. Some students are lucky enough to have their lunches made for them, but for the rest, "chuckwagon", "mystery meat", and other unidentiable objects will have to do.

Outside of school, it always seems that restaurants are where most students meet, or "hang out." If a girl is lucky, her boyfriend might even treat her to dinner every once in a while, but that is a whole other subject.

"No! I don't like junk food!" screams Lynne Naus as Heidi Cullison tries to force it in her mouth. For some reason, this doesn't sound quite right!

Two N.C. students somehow smuggled Wendy's food into the cafeteria. Sure you don't want chuckwagon instead?!

Who's that kid with the oreo cookies? Shannon Panszi witnesses as Whisper Gregory goes for the world record.

Senior Catina Harris points to the array of gourmet lunch food dispersed around her tray. What could be more appetizing?

Shiela DeMars, Jill Smith and Itala Azzarelli show their eating etiquette by daintily placing one M&M in their mouth at a time . . . What?!

Jenny Goldhammer and Kelley Mallon, seniors, try to smile amidst their tears because this is their last year of N.C.'s cafeteria food.

"Finger lickin' good," says senior Shannon Hopp while eating chicken before swimming at Lake Monroe. Wait 20 minutes, Shannon.

Anybody seen these guys together before? Best friends Rob Whitacre, Chris Love, Jon Love and Erik Barrett get ready to go to Prom.

Pretty in pink are seniors Sally Nicely and Jenny Welsh before they head off for the highlight of the junior year, PROM.

Donned in their "evening attire" are friends Kelley Mallon and Anne Sprague, waiting for their dates to pick them up.

With the light sparkling off of her sequined dress, Nikki Martin and former N.C. student Tyler Ward have a little fun at dinner before Prom.

We Paint The Town Red ... EVERYDAY!

The day-to-day casual wear often becomes boring to the students at North Central, so every now and then they dress up and spend a night on the town. Such school functions as Prom, Homecoming and Grad Dance create many evenings of excitement for N.C. students.

First, the problem of finding a date arises a few weeks before the dance in question. Then, once the pressure of finding a date is off, the need for a dress enters the picture. Sometimes, it takes days of intense thought to find the "perfect" attire for the occasion. In the end, though, the style of North Central always shines through. Whether it be the Prom, or just a night out with friends, N.C. is always represented beautifully by its student body, one which really knows how to "paint the town red!"

Brightly decked-out and ready for the "best night of their lives" are Paula McAtee, Amy Hale and Abby Helmer before Prom.

Scott Tittle escorts Allison Walters amidst onlooking spectators shortly before they were crowned Prom King and Queen.

Let's Get Wild And Crazy

Everyone has to get a little crazy sometimes, and North Central students seem to be pretty good at just that! Of course our minds are always on school work while in school, but out of school is a different story.

The stress put on students as a result of six weeks tests, and, of course, the SAT, can be enough to drive someone insane. It doesn't seem fair that such tests can literally change the course of one's life. Although it is hard for some to just sit back, take a breath of fresh air, and calm their nerves, this is usually the best way to handle stress. Others choose to release their anxieties in a more hyperative fashion. Going to wild parties and "letting loose" tends to be a favorite tactic among many N.C. students. Whatever the time of day, or day of the week, if the stress is too much, and the tension too strong, get CRAZY N.C.!

Decked out in war paint, Mr. Broderick and senior John Wilkerson prepare to paint the side of the house by doing a traditional paint dance.

Senior Jenny Carpenter looks like a little elf in her rain gear for the tour of Niagara Falls. Hey Fish, want to go for a swim in there?

"Hangin' Tough" is Cathy Hunter backstage at Deer Creek Music Center with Donnie Wahlberg, member of "New Kids on the Block."

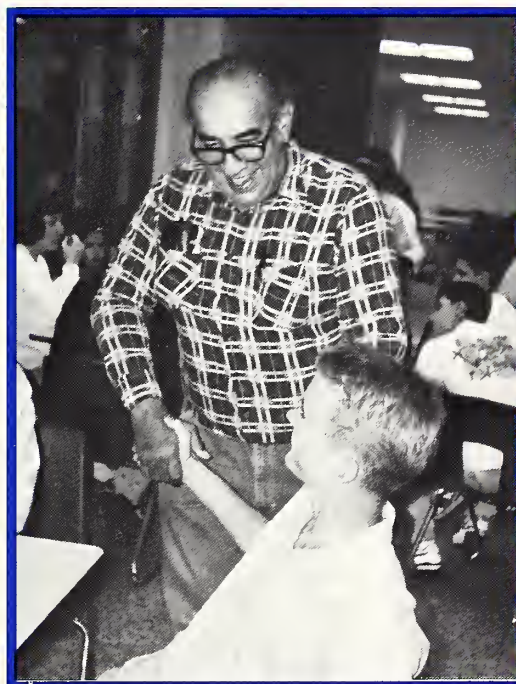

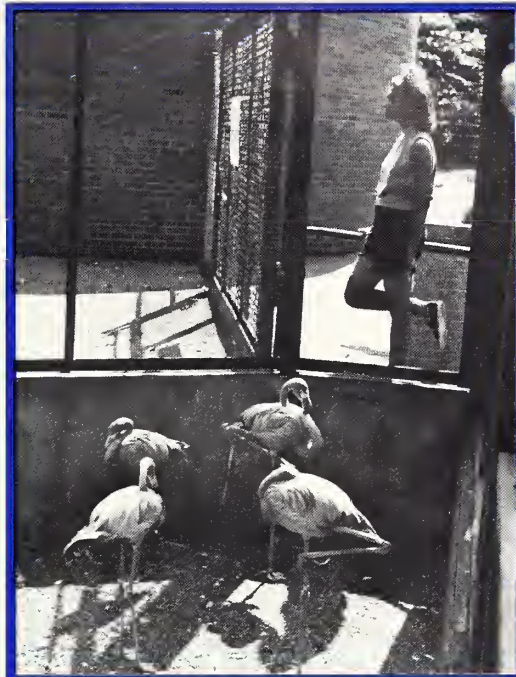

Senior Jake Query salutes good friend and possible Grad Dance/Blast Off date, cafeteria staff worker, Ms. Howell.

Terrence Walton monkeys around after school. Hopefully, he knows that if he does that for too long his face will stay like that!

In her free time, senior Nikki Packer enjoys hanging out with the birds. Be careful, Nikki, you might turn pink and grow a tail!

"Hey, hey, hey, you'll be alright one day," says everybody's buddy, Herb, to junior Bill Keedy during another exquisite lunch.

With sweaty palms Jada Hensley, Kristin Druckamiller, and Itala Azarelli pose for a picture before the final night of Junior Spec.

N.C. Students Reach To Outer Bounds

Traveling is not only a good way to get away from home, but no matter where you go it is usually a beneficial learning experience. North Central provides many school related trips, which gives students an organized and usually cheaper way of getting out of Indiana for a while, and of course learning about other parts of our world as well.

Many students are also fortunate to get to go on trips with family members or friends, and with all of the new and exciting things happening in the world today, one doesn't have to go far to discover changes. From the unification of Germany to the U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia, our world is a massive place of changes, and the only way to really get a grip on these changes is to travel to these outer places and see the changes from our own perspectives.

College visits are a necessity during the final two years at N.C. as shown by Shiela DeMars and Itala Azzarelli with Shiela's sister in Michigan.

While in Canada, Ezra Simon stops to have his picture taken with a marshal on a horse. What's wrong with this picture? Horse + street sign!

Are we seeing double? Not quite, it's just twin sisters Kristen and Amy Tubergen in the Cayman Islands. Don't forget the suntan lotion!

Nothing could be neater than an evening at the theater. These N.C. students agree before they go see "The Phantom of the Opera."

Ahoy mates! Seniors Heidi Cullison and Lisa Martin pose with some Russian sailors that they met at the San Diego Zoo.

Ahh ... sisterly love. Jenny and Debby Barcus stop and take a rest while climbing the Smokey Mountains.

Seniors Nikki Martin, Kye Steffey and Kristi Field put on a happy face to be back in Indy after traveling through Europe for a month.

Are you 21? Sherry Toffolo "legally" takes a sip of wine at a romantic cafe in Bayonne, France over the summer.

"The hills are alive, with the sound of music." Can't you just hear the melody playing behind these N.C. students?

ACADEMIC MINIS

Close your eyes and think back . . . back to the days when "math" meant "flash cards," "history" meant "Grandma and Grandpa," and the only homework we had was to match the word "red" with the correct crayon. Those were the good old days. Now open your eyes and look around, and you'll see how much the times have changed.

Backpacks have replaced the traditional manila folders when it comes to carrying homework. Be it lab write-ups, proofs, criticisms or translations, N.C. students have an unusually heavy workload. Yet it is because of the many sleepless nights and endless cram sessions that North Central has earned recognition as one of the academically superior high schools in the state of Indiana.

On a quest for that perfect book, senior Kye Steffey searches through the card catalog.

Student Center benches serve as an excellent place to finish some last-minute English homework.

Senior Tina Bongfeldt relaxes while searching for a book on the endless shelves of the NC library.

Past, Present and Future

-Amy Carr

The unavoidable, the unescapable, the "tear your hair out" courses located in upper A and E halls- science and social studies are two departments necessary for graduation.

Reading, writing and arithmetic are no longer the only criteria for graduation. The state requires one year of a physical science and one of a life science, and even more to get into a choice college. Social studies, U.S. history, government and economics are also required for graduation. World history and world problems are also suggested to strengthen your course selections.

Your counselor told you to take it, your mom said you'd love it, your friends warned you about it-chemistry-the college bound students' nightmare. Although most struggle with this course, students have to learn to like it. Who knows, we may discover the next Albert Einstein right here in the hallowed halls of North Central!

But why dwell on the fact that these courses are required when you get to use neat-o lab equipment in chemistry and are privileged enough to read out of those brand new expensive U.S. history books. Where else but our science classes can we spend three days in the lab room or developing our argumental skills in debate in social studies. Without these courses how would we know how to balance an equation or find Djibouti on the map. We need these courses to get into college and, of course, to survive in the "real" world.

I accidentally stabbed myself with a compass and had to go down to the health center!

Everything G Adds Up

-Amy Silver

It's hard to believe a few hours of math could be worth messing up our hair, slipping on ice, and catching colds. However, due to overcrowding, most of us are forced to brave the elements everyday to get to our Hilltop math classes.

Nobody said math would be easy! Certainly not with all the theorems, formulas, postulates, equations and definitions to remember. Solving algebraic equations and geometric proofs are just the beginning for students. "I'm so busy with complex equations that I forgot how to add $2+2$," says one third year algebra student. For those of us totally lost, help sessions are usually held before or after school and student tutoring services are also available for those who need them.

No matter what we do, teachers always seem to give long homework assignments (yes, freshmen, even over weekends and vacations) and impossible tests. Now even multiple choice tests due to the invention of the scantron machine can boggle our minds.

Whether one is just fulfilling graduation requirements or preparing for a career in math, the North Central math department is an excellent place to begin. Courses range from basic geometry to calculus and math topics.

Whatever math class you take, keep in mind that colleges look very highly upon them. Most schools require three or four years of math to even be considered for admission. So hang in there, some day it just might all add up!

Making sure he's prepared for algebra class, junior Sam Goldsmith stops at his locker for a book during passing period.

Sweet Homeroom

-Melissa Forbes

Homeroom classes which meet once a week are a student's main contact with what is going on in the school. Homerooms can be a lot of fun if one has a good second period class. Of course, as one junior found, it can also be embarrassing. Her freshman year, Jennifer McCormick had swimming for her homeroom class. While walking on the pool deck one day, she slipped and hit her head. Feeling a bit dizzy and nauseous, she was wheeled to the health center during passing period, dripping wet, sporting one of those beautiful N.C. bathing suits.

But not all students have such bad experiences. Homerooms allow students the chance to relax from the normal school day activities by talking with friends, rushing to finish homework due that or the next period, by catching up on some Z's not gotten the night before, or even by listening to announcements and student council information. Good homerooms could allow students the chance to get involved with school and extra-curricular activities. Examples of these are the student council activities that are held during the week of homecoming. Musical chairs, a poem contest, a dance contest, the annual tricycle/mud bog race, and the bedsheet decorating contest were held this year, and allowed students to not only have fun, but to get involved and show school spirit.

Around the time just before Holiday Break, the annual can drive is held. Students get into the holiday spirit by collecting cans for their homerooms. Competitions are held among homerooms to see who brings in the most cans. As one student explained, "One year my homeroom lost the can drive competition with another homeroom class by only twelve cans. As punishment, we had to sing French Christmas carols in the student center before first period. It was really embarrassing because at the time I was a freshman and all the seniors were making fun of us."

"We're just resting our eyes!" This homeroom class is actually dreaming of winning the Student Council can drive.

Junior Seth Ramsey smiles during the daily morning announcements in U.S. history while eagerly awaiting the start of class.

Learning Unlimited

-Shea Stauffer

Learning Unlimited is one of few alternative education programs available in the state of Indiana. This program enables students to learn in a more relaxed environment with more emphasis placed on the individual student. Students are allowed to have more independence and to develop their own personal goals and study habits.

Part of the L.U. curriculum includes completing a minimum of 24 community service hours per semester. Through community projects, students are able to discover more about themselves and their community, experience career interests and contribute to society.

"I chose my community because I'm interested in elementary education. It has been a great way to gain experience with younger children," said senior Shannon Hopp. Career interests help people decide which community project would be best for them. Senior Amy Ashby chose her community to learn more about a certain aspect in life. "I have experienced things you cannot learn in a text."

Learning Unlimited has been a successful program for 18 years. L.U. teacher Mike Cupp says, "I believe strongly in the required community involvement. It is beneficial to students, school, and the community. It aids in our society understanding students and their capabilities."

The L.U. program also requires that each student complete a contract designating the specific skills he chooses to concentrate on during his community. The contract shows the student's individual personal goals he hopes to reach through his project.

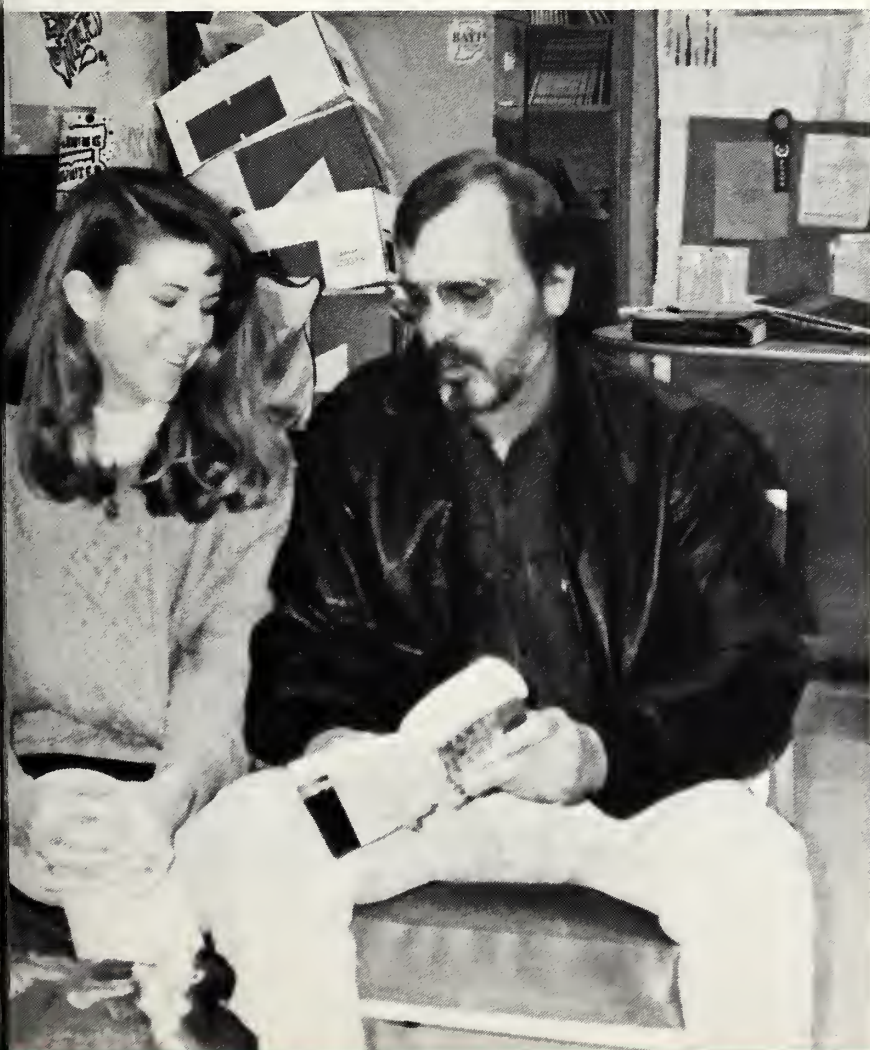

Why do you like L.U.?

Making A Masterpiece

-Amy Silver

If you've ever smelled the delicious aroma of baked goods as you dash down lower H-hall or see students carrying eggs in baskets as if they're real babies then you have an idea of what home economics is all about. We all take math, English, social studies and science classes to prepare us for college, but home ec classes such as foods, clothing, child development and interpersonal relations are a form of preparation not all students choose to take advantage of. In foods students learn how to prepare things from muffins to full meals. Not only do they participate in labs like these but are also taught the importance of nutrition and table settings. In clothing class, students get a chance to create and design clothes of their own, then show off their work in a spring fashion show.

The North Central Art Department has something for everyone in need of a creative outlet. Exploring art media are elements of beginning art. Students also develop the painting and drawing skills needed to advance to the next level. Ceramics students create objects using pottery wheels. Jewelry students can be found wearing their work in the forms of earrings, bracelets and rings. Other classes offered through the art department include art appreciation, sculpture and photography. Art students get a chance to display a multitude of their finest work in the Fine Arts Festival.

The home ec and art departments are vital to the survival of stressed out NC students. We need these elective classes to take out all of our frustrations and to have fun while pursuing our hobbies. These classes are low stress and high reward in that we can perfect our natural talents in these classes and actually earn a grade for what we enjoy doing most!

J. Everett Light Career Center

-Jennifer Goldblatt

Just 50 feet of concrete separates North Central life from "real" life. This concrete composes the passageway known affectionately to students as "the tunnel" which connects North Central High School to the J. Everett Light Career Center. The Career Center is a place where students are given the opportunity to escape the conformities of the classroom and are able to explore the hobby or career of their choice.

The Career Center offers a variety of classes from jewelry to industrial art, photography to auto mechanics-almost anyone can find an interest at JELCC. One of the most popular classes which the career center offers is the radio/t.v. program. This three-hour class trains students through first-hand work in telecommunications by challenging the students to operate WJEL, North Central's own radio station, and work on the set of Washington Township Magazine, a cable television show.

The career center also offers different co-op programs for those students serious about pursuing their careers. The students meet in the classroom three times a week, and the remainder of the time is spent on hands-on training in their field of interest.

The J. Everett Light Career Center offers students an alternative learning environment where they can learn from experience and start preparing for their futures. The training they receive is a step in the right direction toward a stable job in the real world.

The students' attitude toward the career center is very positive. "I like the career center," says Junior Laura Howald. "At North Central we learn by the books, and at the career center we learn by experience."

the future

-Shea Stauffer

"I don't wanna go," said Woody Paik. With all the complications, college has a tendency to scare students away. On the other hand, several students are counting the days until they leave for college.

Many high school students at North Central are preparing for their future days. Be it by taking x-classes, filling out applications, writing essays or visiting colleges, the majority are ready for the next big step in their education.

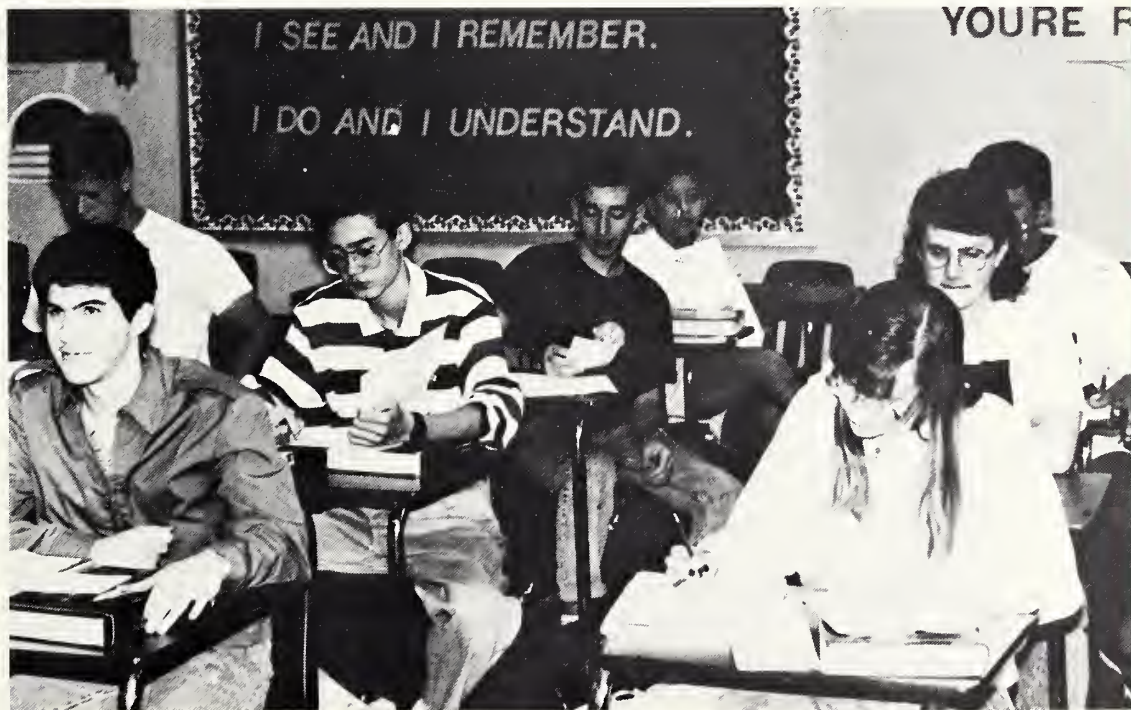

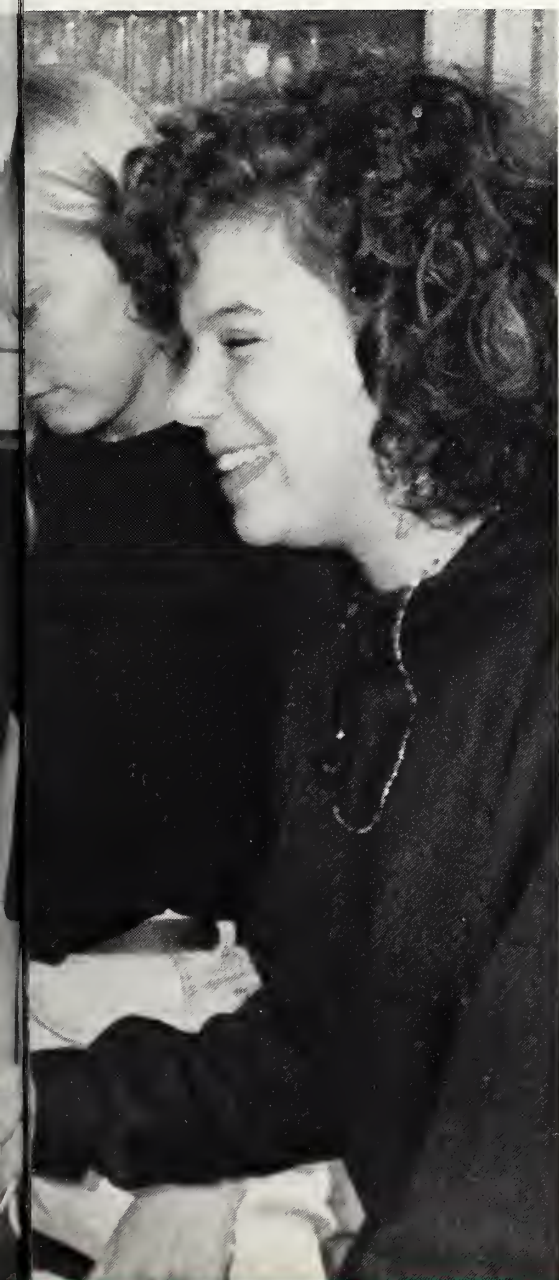

Several students felt that by taking x-classes, they would be a step above the rest. Granted there is more homework, but most feel the extra load will prevent a shock of overload their freshman year. Also, some students enjoyed the challenges their x-classes offered them.

Deciding on a college once you have been accepted is, for some, a big problem. "Going out on my own and meeting new friends is what I look forward to the most. I think I will be happy at most any college," said Anne Sprague. Universities suggest the best way to decide is to visit the campus as much as possible. This lets students decide if they would be comfortable at that campus. "After visiting the Purdue campus and experiencing the social atmosphere, I'm assured that Purdue is the school for me," said Molly Cramsie. Being comfortable is the key to success in college. With all the responsibilities one needs the comfort of home and a warm social atmosphere to escape the everyday stress.

As soon as senior year ends, students are ready to step up into a world much different from high school. With them will go their experiences from North Central to help in continuing their success.

Opportunity to travel abroad has come for North Central students — more this year than ever before. France, England, Italy and the Soviet Union were just some of the countries experienced during the summer of '90. Whether going on family vacations, exchange programs or just having a learning experience, these students had a lot to say about different new cultures, languages and people.

"The food in the Soviet Union wasn't edible," said senior Alyson Brodey. "While we stayed there we ate only bread and butter." When asked what he remembered most about his trip to the USSR, junior Keith Gibbs commented on how clean the transportation systems were.

Alyson, Keith and many others took part in the People to People program, an organization allowing students from different countries to interact with cultures and peoples other than their own. Another program, Nacel, helped many students travel abroad. With the Nacel program, students lived with selected French families for four weeks. Within these families they learned the lifestyles and activities of everyday French people, whether it was a large city or a rural farm.

There was an existing language barrier, but since most students had experience in NC foreign language classes, that barrier was overcome (with some help from pointing, gestures and dictionaries!). These trips served as excellent opportunities for students to practice their foreign languages.

Both of these travel programs helped the participants further their personal growth. By living and functioning in another culture, the students learned how to interact with people whose customs and cultures differ from our own.

Gym and Health — two classes most students say they can do without, but let's face it — where else can we learn to properly execute the crawl stroke, or locate our tibia?

With all the pressures of spontaneous RRB's on material we were supposed to read and Algebra tests longer than the Great Wall of China, freshmen need a place to relax. Maybe our idea of relaxing isn't perfecting our "set" in volleyball, but it sure beats reading another Greek tragedy and best of all, there's no home-

As freshman Thao Bang said, she "likes being with her friends," and for a lot of students, gym is the only time they can socialize in a relaxed atmosphere aside from that miniscule time period called lunch.

We all need exercise, and gym class is a great place to use all our unspent energy. What better way to take out all your frustrations than by slamming a birdie into the net or pegging someone in dodge ball?

As for health, where else could you learn the real meaning of REM? And what about the four food groups? Without health class to set us straight, we might actually believe that they are the cow group, jungle group, sandwich group and Butterfinger group. Not to mention the fact that health PERFECTS our poster-making skills.

Even though gym and health are not considered to be core academics, they prove that students still learn in a more relaxed, fun environment. Both classes often turn out to be a welcomed break in an otherwise hectic day.

Participants in aerobics class learn new dance steps to their favorite songs while they get into shape.

PANTHER SPORTS

Silence fills the football stadium as the Panthers storm out of the locker room. No, the stands are not empty but packed with students wearing red, black and white. Starting as a murmur the roar escalates as the players wonder if they have the right field.

Gazing into the stands, the players notice spirited students and not just parents cheering them on. Waving poms-pons, bandanas and balloons, North Central students have found spirit. The cheerleaders are doing flips and the Panther mascot is dancing to the beat of the marching band as the student section awaits the kickoff. No longer will the opposing team look at our hometeam stands and laugh because they have more spirit.

Par for the course.

Wilks brothers lead team to Sectional championship

The boy's golf team, led by seniors Brian Jacobson, Hans Kraabel, Jeff Rubenstein and Tom Wilks, enjoyed a winning season of 11-3, as well as earning the Sectional championship.

Despite the loss of several veteran seniors, all-county champion Tom Wilks was able to guide the team to a second place finish in the Marion County tourney, a first place showing in Sectionals and finally, fourth place in Regionals. Competition was tough; the team's only losses were close matches with perennially tough Carmel, Kokomo and Lebanon.

Tom Wilks was not the only member of his family to excel in golf for NC. Sophomore Tony Wilks followed his brother's average of 79.6 with an 83.7 which ranked him as the second leading scorer for the team. Graduates Jacobson and Kraabel also held averages in the low 80's which helped the team maintain a high level of performance and gave their game consistency.

Coach Friedersdorf is looking forward to the return of Tony Wilks as well as senior Kris Jordan and juniors Drew Alden and Mike Goldberg. However, 1991 is likely to be a rebuilding year for a relatively young Panther team.

Young Panthers Win Sectional

— by David Goodrich

The North Central girls' softball team proved itself to be a fierce competitor. Despite the fact that the team had only two seniors and three returning lettermen, the team finished the season with a respectable 16-7 record and the Sectional championship.

Strong team leadership came from the senior battery of pitcher Patty Borches and catcher Jasmin Jordan, these seasoned players helped lead the squad throughout the season. Although the 1990 season was characterized by rebuilding, the team reached the Regional playoffs.

Junior centerfielder Lisa Martin summarized the season saying, "Although we only had two seniors, we didn't lack leadership. Mrs. Coyne kept us together as a team by stressing cooperation, spirit and an aggressive attitude. Patty Borches and Jasmin Jordan exemplified these qualities and set a standard for the rest of the team."

Strong hitting and fielding were demonstrated by a talented pool of juniors including Heidi Cullison, Amy Hale, Claire Hochman, Lisa Martin and Suzi Spears, as well as sophomores Shannon Denny and Susan Smith. These veteran players will return for the 1991 season with a strong desire to win and the experience necessary to meet their goals.

"Runnin' ain't easy!"

Blend of youth and experience lift team to successful season

-by Ryan Bruce

After last year's impressive second place showing at the state meet, there were high expectations by coaches and athletes alike toward the season at hand. There were, however, some problems. 1989's team was well balanced in all areas and full of experience. Much of that experience had graduated leaving a real question mark as to whether or not the Panthers could repeat such a feat.

Leading the team into the 1990 season were seniors Jim Pearce and David Keels (middle distances), Kenny Lee (long jump, sprints), Harvey Kelly (400, mile relay), and junior Tony Nibbs (hurdles) who were determined that the team could once again compete for the state title. Along with that experience came a group of freshman-Eric Allen, Derrick Jackson, Teddy Seymour and Nick Hammer-who hoped to provide some much needed support to the team.

With opening season defeats of powerhouses Lawrence North (indoors) and Ben Davis the team quickly erased all doubt. From there the Panthers took off and won the rest of their meets, toppling all who came to challenge them in the regular season, only to lose the Tech Invitational and County meets to eventual state champs Lawrence North. The Panthers did, however, bounce back with Sectional and Regional wins and go on to compete at State.

Commented Jim Pearce, "This year's team was not dominated by just a few individuals. Contributions were made by everyone in all areas which helped us become so successful."

And they're off ... Freshman sprint sensation Derrick Jackson comes out of the blocks to start the 200.

Panthers place 5th in State

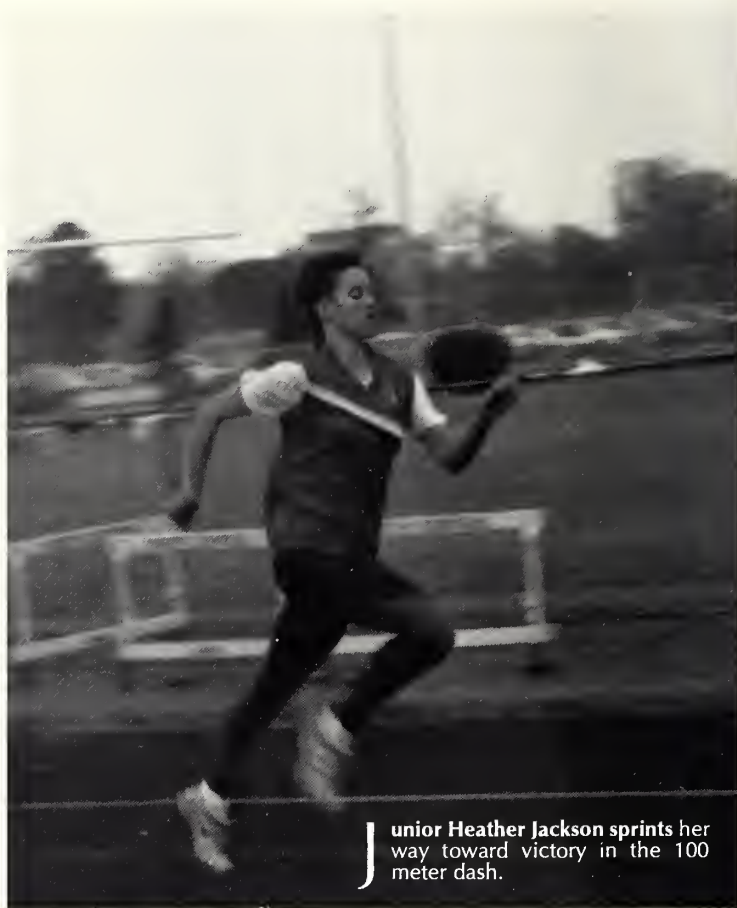

-by Scott McConnell

After finishing second in the state in '89 the girls track and field team returned with a young team led by seniors Cindy Dobbs, Anisa Evans and Sarah Weihe. The Lady Panthers went undefeated in the regular season including first place finishes at the North Central and Tech Invitationals. The team placed first in the County, as well as the Sectionals and Regionals, on the way to a fifth place finish at the State meet.

After spending four competition packed months together the girl's squad grew extremely close. In early March, when ice and frigid temperatures made practicing outside difficult, the team ran upstairs in A and D halls. Sophomore Angee McKnight summarized the season saying, "We knew when we had to be serious and work. However, at times, especially during 'stretch and flex,' we had some interesting conversations. Even though we didn't win state we were extremely proud of how hard we had worked."

The Lady Panthers had several outstanding young runners who will return next year, among them juniors Amy Alden, Kelli Akers, Kristi Fields, Heather Jackson, Angela Walker and Karen Willis, as well as sophomores Adria Collins and Angee McKnight. This nucleus will lead the Panthers, who again promise to be one of the premiere teams in the state.

Dominating the Game

Panthers fall 3-2 in Sectionals

-by Shiela DeMars

The Lady Panthers faced some tough competition during the spring of 1990, but proved that they could handle just about everyone.

Led by co-captains Ali Bleecker and Shiela DeMars, the team started off its season with three 5-0 victories. The Panthers then placed second in the Carmel Invitational, ranking North Central second in the state behind Carmel, the defending state champions.

Disappointedly, Carmel beat North Central 5-0 in their first confrontation, but the Panthers worked hard and beat such rivals as Homestead, 5-0, Park Tudor, 4-1, Cathedral, 5-0, Brebeuf, 5-0, and Park Tudor, 4-1, once again in the County finals.

After demolishing Zionville and Scecina, both 5-0 in the sectionals, North Central faced Carmel once again. This time the Panthers had a chance to prove themselves. Although North Central lost, 3-2, it showed Carmel that the Panthers will be ready to pounce on the Greyhounds the next time they play.

Jessica Jackson is the only senior to leave the team. Returning for the 1991 season are seniors Ali Bleecker, Shiela DeMars, Sally Nicely, Becky Wilhoite and Linda Goldberg. Returning juniors are Anju Gupta and Jill Jackson and some promising freshman will add to more victories for the Lady Panthers, hopefully including a State championship.

Batter Up!

Panthers finish under .500 but talented underclassmen should bring future success

-by Ryan Bruce

The 1990 baseball season was not a typical North Central season, nor a great way for Coach Tom Bradley to enter into retirement after more than 30 years of coaching.

Inconsistent and streaky play plagued the Panthers for most of the season. The team started out the season with a win over a consistently good Bloomington North squad in the first game of a double-header. But with dropping the second game came a seven game losing streak, a streak which ended in the same situation the first had started with, a win in the first game of a doubleheader.

With that win over Mt. Vernon, the Panthers would embark upon a five game winning streak which would see them average more than seven runs a game and allow less than two; statistics that, aside from their less than .500 record, would have anyone believing they were one of the best teams in the state.

While 1989 brought little success, with 10 players returning from the varsity squad most of whom played together during the summer, the future looks bright for this talented group of young men.

Dedicated Lady Panthers win both county and sectional.

For the 1990 girls' golf team it was a year of hard work and much success. The girls ended the season with a 7-3 record.

Led by Coach Joe Murphy, the Panthers started their season with an upsetting loss in the Lafayette Invitational. They soon recovered with a strong win against Ben Davis.

The team's biggest match was against Carmel, which they lost by a close eight strokes. "We played well but just could not get ahead of them," comments junior Leigh Holzhausen.

The team was led by senior Linda Goldberg. She was the number one golfer and was honored as the runner-up in the county tournament with an 86. "We were capable of being a really great team, but we did not have much consistency," explained Goldberg.

After winning county, the girls were very anxious to play in the sectionals. They wanted to win and knew that it was very possible. The team played well and finished first advancing on in the tournament.

Regretfully, Goldberg and Holzhausen were not able to participate in regionals so the girls were short-handed against some tough competition. The team ended the season with a seventh place finish and, as a whole, were content with their season. The team wishes to dedicate its season to former team member Carrie Crouse who had a great and lasting impact on the team.

What a shot! Senior Stacey Gilmer lets loose with a 200 yard drive.

Red and Black Attack

TEAM concept carries Panther gridgers to sectional finals

-by Ryan Bruce and Scott McConnell

Work Ethic — a term often used in the realm of sports — was synonymous with the 1990 Panther football team. When a team loses 13 starters, people would expect that a team either work or get ready for an extremely long season.

That is not to say that this year's team did not have its share of returning talent. While the defense was hit hardest by this year's graduation, Coach Paul Loggan had hard-hitting linebacker Woody Paik, speedy Bobby Keith at defensive end and two bone-jarring defensive backs in Cameron McDaniel and Jason Venturi returning as starters. These veterans gave Loggan a strong base around which to build.

Complementing the defensive returns were size and speed on offense. Returning to anchor the young offensive line were tackle Mark Tarowsky, a three year starter, and center Ryan Bruce. In the backfield, the team possessed explosive speed in Tony Nibbs, a back in the mold of former Panther standouts Ray Wallace and Lars Tate. Also adding to the quickness of the backfield was quarterback Greg Black, a former two year starter at free safety.

The Panthers opened their 1990 campaign with a tightly contested loss to arch rival Carmel. Although the loss was marred by offensive inconsistency, the defense asserted themselves right off the bat. The D twice stopped the then #1 Greyhounds inside the five yard line and held them to 10 points until the final minute of the game.

Even with the loss, the Panther D had asserted itself as a major force. Since the beginning of the season, the importance of a good defense was stressed, and as the year progressed, the defense would rise to the occasion week in and week out.

Offensive inconsistency plagued the Panthers in two other regular season losses. Unable to effectively move the ball, the Panthers fell in two close games to Ben Davis and Massillon Washington. The offense struggled to move the ball inside the 20 at times. The offense, however, when it got untracked, was explosive.

One of the team's most exciting victories came at Warren Central. The game, a defensive contest, was being led 3-0 by Warren in the second half when defensive tackle Michael Hinkle scooped up a fumble and rambed 18 yards for a touchdown. The offense, which had struggled all game, came through in the fourth quarter running almost six minutes off the clock.

The team played extremely well in the playoffs, including a route of Dectaur Central and a 28-7 pummeling of Carmel. The Panthers fell short, however, against state champs Ben Davis, who eliminated the Panthers for the fourth straight year. The Panthers finished the season a respectable 7-4 and for the second time in the last three years were sectional finalists. The NC football program's future looks bright as the team hopes to build on the success of the past three years.

A final moment of silence . . . The Panthers have their traditional team meeting before warm-ups. These gatherings were normally reserved to remember a lost team member and friend, Carlton Purnell.

It's A Goal!

Panthers reach final four to place third in state.

-by Scott McConnell

The girls soccer team finished the 1990 season 12-5-1 and placed an outstanding third in the state finals. The senior laden team was led by Captain Maura Sherman as well as All-State forward Shaina Ettinger. The team, coached by Howard Lacy, stressed unity and communication among team members.

The season's high points were pairs of victories over Lawrence North (the second in overtime) and Richmond, along with the team's second Final Four appearance in the last four years. Ettinger, the team's leading scorer, commented, "The season was an incredible experience. Although we lost to Carmel in the semis, placing third in state was great. We're all extremely proud of our accomplishments as a team."

The squad raced through the tourney, defeating Pike, LN and Richmond before suffering a 6-0 defeat to Carmel in the state semi-finals. The Lady Panthers went on to defeat St. Joseph in the state consolation game giving the girls the best finish in team history.

The season marks the end of an era with the graduation of seven four-year varsity contributors. Seniors Janet Ananias, Kirsty Claffey, Melissa Kemple, Jenny Lautzenheiser and Jenny Rizzo, along with Ettinger and Sherman, played an important part in building the NC girls soccer team into the Panther powerhouse it has become and they will be missed.

Strong crop of underclassmen turn Panthers into contenders

-by Ryan Bruce

A runners high ... Sophomore Nick Hammer looks to gain ground on his competitors during the state meet.

With a disappointing fifth place in last years semi-state, and after graduating five seniors from the squad, there were many doubts about the strength of this years team.

"At first," admitted Coach Rick Stover, "I was a little apprehensive. We graduated four of our top seven, and I didn't think this would be our year to make the state meet and do well."

With only one senior, Peter Rohan, in the top seven, the young Panthers posted an impressive dual meet record of 10-1, with their only loss coming at the hands of the defending state champs, Ben Davis. But early season injuries plagued the team which showed in their sub-par places in both the Warren and Pike Hokum Karums.

However, with injuries out of the way, the Panthers showed they weren't a team to be taken lightly as they posted higher places in the remaining invitationals than last years team. Not to mention being second only to Ben Davis in a strong county field before bringing home both the sectional and regional championships, third in the semi-state and finally a respectable eighth at the state meet.

Leading the way for the 1990 team were sophomores Nick Hammer and Troy Tyner. Along with them, senior Peter Rohan, juniors Pat Harris and Bill Keedy, and sophomores Bill Fraps and Kyle Griffith provided both strength and depth for the Panthers aiding in their success.

Young, athletic squad finishes season with loss in sectionals

-by Scott McConnell

The volleyball team finished the season with a 15-14 record and advanced to the second round of sectional play. The team was led by Captain Suzi Spears, the squad's only senior, and junior Beth Diehl, a rising star.

Although the team was extremely young it compensated for its inexperience with power and quickness. The team did not lack for effort, in fact it was one of the better teams in NC history.

The team's signature was probably its athletic play. The season was highlighted by regular season wins against Warren Central, Brebeuf and a demolishing of Park Tudor in the sectionals. The team ended the season with a disappointing loss to Brebuef, 3 games to 2, in the second round of the sectionals.

Despite the fact that in the past NC has not been known for its volleyball squads, the future looks bright for this team. Returning juniors Laurie Bickell, Susan Culp, Amy Gerken-smeyer, Kris Karrmann, Robyn Kovach, Adele New-some and Susan Smith, along with sophomore Jennifer Andreassen and Diehl, form a base that could challenge the best teams in the state.

On the Ball

Talent and experience guide Panthers to sectional title

-by Ryan Bruce

Making him pay. Senior Chris Prosser attempts to pass the ball, but has it blocked back at him.

With nine returning varsity players, Coach Jerry Little once again found himself with another pre-season problem, how to blend seven young, but experienced juniors with two talented seniors in order to make a team capable of contending for a state title.

Whatever the solution, Coach Little's team improved their record over last season to 14-8-2 and winning a sectional championship in the process, before bowing out of the tournament with a hard fought loss to a tough Noblesville squad in the regional.

The start of the Panthers 1990 campaign, however, did not start out the way anyone had hoped as the team could only muster three wins in their first 11 outings.

A win over Zionsville would ignite the talented Panther squad to win eight straight and 11 out of their last 13 games, with the only two losses being two very highly competitive games against Noblesville.

The future for North Central looks bright as the team will boast 14 returning lettermen led by Saul Nurok, will as Coach Little stated, "go after the state title."

Girls finish fourth in state.

-by David Goodrich

The relatively young girls cross country team proved their mettle by placing a very respectable fourth in the state meet. The Lady Panthers finished the season with an impressive 11-0 record in dual meets. The girls also placed first in the county, sectional and regional meets.

In spite of having only one returning senior letter winner, the team had a deep pool of talent. The team leader was junior Angee McKnight, a three time letter winner who was named to the All-State cross country team. McKnight had a fine cast behind her with freshman Sonja Lilljeberg, sophomores Sarah Coleman, Christine Pence, Leah Plocharczyk, Tracy Walter, Shannon Whitehead and senior Suzanne Faris.

Much of the team can be attributed to its hard work and spirit. During practices Coach Steve McIntyre constantly reminded the team to "be determined, compete and be complete" in order to have a successful year.

The prospects for next year look bright with the loss of only one letter winner. McKnight optimistically noted, "Next fall should be promising because there shouldn't be many teams capable of matching us. With that in mind, I think the '91 season should be exciting as well as rewarding." This intensity and optimism, along with a promising class of new freshmen, should lead the team to great heights next season.

Sophomore Tracy Walter shifts into overdrive as she passes a runner at the state meet.

Semi-state upset blemishes otherwise perfect season

-by Chris Wu

As with previous dominating NC boys' tennis teams, this year's squad continued the winning tradition. Unfortunately though, the team was halted in their quest for a 12th state title after being upset by Park Tudor in the semi-state.

The Panthers nonetheless ended their outstanding season with a 22-1 record and championship performances at county, sectional and regional. Semi-state happened to be the Panthers' only loss, and in fact they did beat Park Tudor the two previous times the teams faced.

Leading the way for the fearsome Panthers were senior co-captains Jim Birge and Erik Barrett. Commented Birge on the season, "Coach Buckley did a great job of working with us and keeping our goals in perspective. He emphasized sportsmanship as opposed to winning at all costs, and that made us a better team."

Holding down the No. 1 singles slot for the Panthers was Erik Barrett. Through his tenacious game-style and consistent ground strokes, Barrett capped off the season with only two losses and a total of three during his three years of varsity play.

Following Barrett was sophomore powerhouse Evan Harms. Said Coach Buckley, "Evan was our surgeon. On the court he would quietly take his opponent apart." Harms will definitely be a needed asset to next year's group of state contenders and also a hopeful for the singles crown.

Freshman Andrew Held completed the trio of singles as he proved that it took more than just size to win. Held, throughout the season, won the respect of all his opponents, which included a 6-4, 6-2 thriller over his Carmel foe.

Perhaps the greatest asset to the North Central team were the doubles teams. It has always been a trademark of all Panther teams to show unmatched depth, and this fact was prevalent again as the doubles teams did not lose a match in either the sectional, regional or semi-state. In fact the No. 1 doubles team of Joe Stemming and Joe Liddy went on to capture the first ever state doubles title out of a field which included 287 teams.

Probably the No. 2 doubles team in the state was the senior team of Birge and Mark Dutton. At their No. 2 post they finished with an unmatched, undefeated season, ending it with a crushing 6-2, 6-0 victory over their Park Tudor foe.

As for next year the team will be ready to avenge their loss. Said Coach Buckley, "I know that Evan, Andrew and the rest of the team will encourage all of us to work harder this summer and we'll get them back next year."

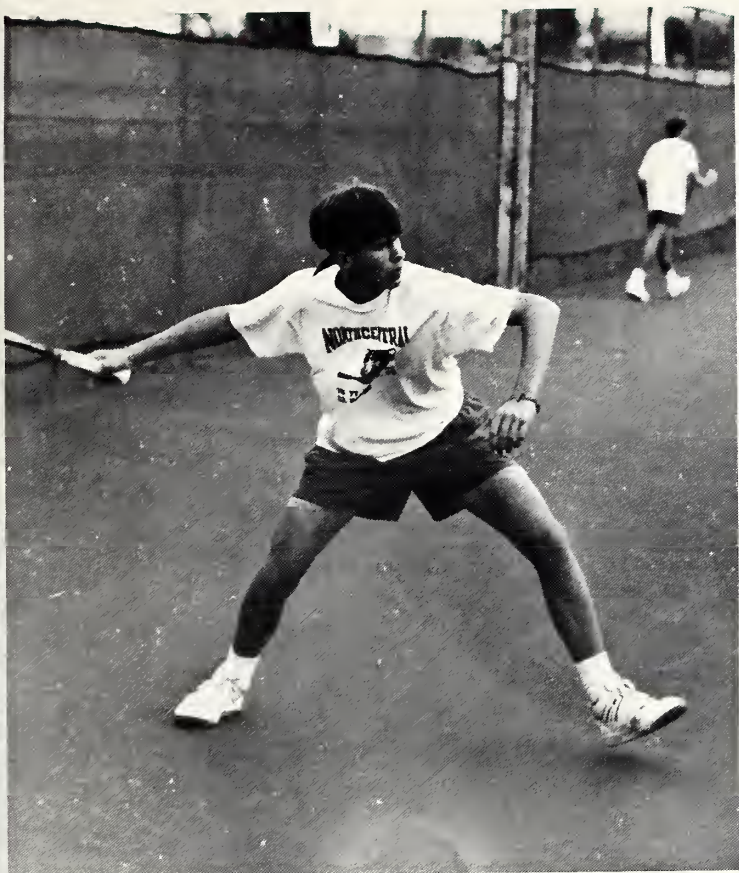

Using his tremendous forehand... senior singles-king Erik Barrett returns his opponents serve.

Swimmers place 4th in state.

-by David Goodrich

The 1990 girls' swim team had one of the strongest seasons in recent years. Led by a group of spirited seniors, the team ended their season with a 9-2 record. The team took the County Championship, second place at Sectionals and fourth in the State meet held at the IUPUI Natatorium.

Depth and spirit were key assets in the lady Panthers' wins. Ironically the team lost its first meet against Anderson because several of the swimmers were just returning from U.S.S junior national competition. Following their initial defeat, the lady Panthers buried the rest of their competition losing only to swimming super power, Carmel, in one of the fastest and closest meets with this team in recent years. The team had outstanding leaders in seniors Kristin Druckamiller, Tiffany Leaman, Alicia O'Brian and Kassy Overbeck. Principal Dr. White noted the girls' swim team to be one of the most spirited of all fall sport teams. Senior Kristin Druckamiller enthusiastically added that "school support was incredible and got us very excited. The team is growing stronger every year and as seniors we are sad to leave."

Much of the lady Panthers' prowess can be attributed to strong depth in the underclassman ranks. Many records were broken. The sophomores proved explosive in the water as Emily Maxwell broke the 200yd. individual medley and 500yd. freestyle records while Melissa Sullivan set new bests in the 200yd. freestyle and 100yd. backstroke. The 200yd. medley record was also taken by the team of Maxwell, Sullivan, Druckamiller and Overbeck. The team hopes to beat Carmel and continue in its winning ways next year.

After the intensity with which the 1989-90 basketball season ended, great things were expected from a relatively young but experienced team returning for the 1990-91 campaign.

The Panthers, led by point guard Greg Black and center Dewey Williams, boasted both quickness on the perimeter and a powerful inside force with which opponents would have to deal. With the return of junior swingman Kenny Wright, the Panthers offered one of the most dominating low-post teams in the state.

Along with Black, seniors Marc Thompson and William Woodson provided consistent guard play whether starting or coming off the bench. However without a second proven forward Coach Steve Coffman had to look to unproven underclassmen to fill the void. Sophomores Eric Allen and Jay Prince, and Junior Tony Tate provided the solutions to that problem. As guards, both Allen and Prince provided more than adequate play either coming off the bench or in starting roles. Both young men proved early their ability to score and handle the ball.

The 1990-91 season started with the same flair as the previous one had ended with as the Panthers steamrolled to four straight wins and seemed headed to the top 20. Yet that steamroller was halted by turnovers, miscues, and inconsistent play by the team as a whole. After losing their next three games, the Panthers could only muster a game under .500 record going to the Sectional at Hinkle Fieldhouse.

The Panthers continued their intensity from a one point loss to Anderson into the playoffs. Taking advantage of their good draw, the hunger Panthers rolled to three impressive victories over Lawrence Central, Lawrence North, and Arlington to end the 12 year drought and bring home the Hinkle Sectional title. However, that momentum and the season were halted in a hard fought loss to a tough Southport club.

With impressive play from Tate and the other underclassmen throughout the playoffs, the Panthers look to be in good shape for next years campaign. If all goes well the Panthers could be successful in defending their Sectional title.

Defense, Defense!!!

Girls fall to Brebeuf in Sect.

-by Shannon Denny

It was a year of learning experiences for the girls basketball team. The Lady Panthers finished with a somewhat disappointing 8-10 record. Four seniors, four juniors and four sophomores comprised a squad that put pressure on many of the state's top-ranked teams.

Because the Panthers were lacking in size and power, defense played the most important part in the game strategy of the team. The Panther's pressure defense, made extra potent because of speed, led them to a 53-43 regular season victory over Brebeuf. Although the squad was defeated by an experienced Warren Central team, the Lady Panther's aggressive defense kept them close throughout the contest.

Senior forwards Jenny Rizzo, Maura Sherman and Betsy Zimmerman all contributed to the team by excelling in both rebounding and inside scoring. Indiana State bound senior Nikki Sims led the team with her sharp shooting touch and her ability to drive to the basket.

Juniors Mindy Boehlke and Shannon Denny, along with sophomores Cara Johnson and Kendra Lile, were called on to provide strong defense as well as offensive support. Sophomore guards Shannon and Sheila McPherson combined quickness, dribbling skill and impressive shooting touch to help provide consistency in a year filled with ups and downs.

For the second year in a row North Central fell to arch-rival Brebeuf in the Sectional tournament. The Lady Braves knocked NC out of the tourney in a hard fought battle that ended with an overtime score of 42-39.

Even though Coach Chuck Beohlke and the Panthers will be losing four very talented seniors, there is plenty of potential waiting to shine through in the coming seasons. The reserve team finished an impressive 14-2. That talent, along with the continued maturity of the remaining varsity players, should help propel NC to greater heights next year.

"Mafia" posts winning season

Young wrestlers rise to prove worthy of opponent's respect

-by Ibrahim Alghani

North Central's 1990-1991 wrestling campaign was a success from the vantage point that they completed the season with more victories than defeats. Equally astounding is the fact that they compiled their (9-8) record with a relatively young team.

Individual highlights included Junior Bob Vogel posting a (23-6) record in the 171 weight class and the leadership demonstrated by Senior Dave Harstad throughout the season. The class of '93" also made a significant contribution to this year's team in the form of Forrest Berry and Thunder Grimes.

This was by no stretch of the mind a banner year for the Panthers. However, it was made easier by the unique closeness demonstrated by the team. The teammates really cared for each other and thus the nickname mafia was adopted. This team chemistry inevitably catapulted them to victories in their first two contests and a second place finish in sectionals.

With an abundance of area talent including the likes of Warren Central, Decatur Central, Ben Davis and Cathedral. N.C. is merely a "middle of the pack" team on the verge of reaching the upper echelon. They took a major step toward being an elite wrestling team by advancing eight men to regionals. These eight were Grimes, Harstad, Vogel, Mike McAllister, Berry, Yohan Caldwell, Malcolm Smith and Verilee Thompson. Out of these eight Grimes, Vogel and Caldwell were fortunate enough to advance to semi-state. The success of many athletic squads is based on whether or not they accomplish their goal. Murphy feels strongly that by becoming competent wrestlers they have accomplished their pre-season goal.

Gymnasts capture county

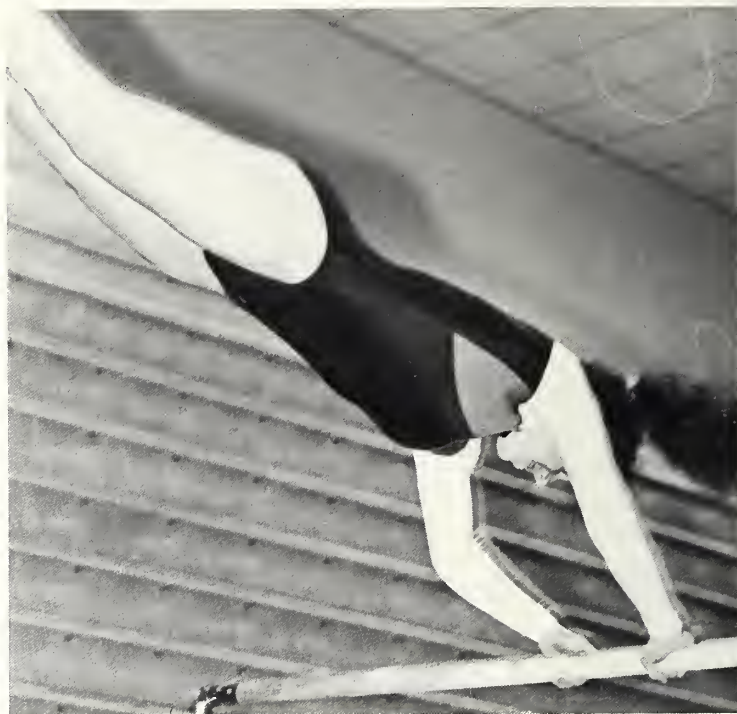

-by Mike Provus

The North Central gymnastics team's season was characterized by youth. The team capped the season by winning county, setting a precedent for the team's future.

This year's team had great all-around depth. Kristen Hess and Peggy Stein, both juniors, contributed greatly to the team's success in all-around competition. Catherine Creek and Cathy Hunter, two promising sophomores, excelled on the bars and floor. These two young athletes promise to be even better in the future.

Crystal Haynes, the team captain and Marion county champion on the bars, greatly raised the team's spirit and unity. Head Coach Kurt Benjamin feels that Crystal is not only an exceptional gymnast but also an exceptional team leader.

The team also benefited from the contributions of freshmen Lindsey Smith and Becky Peters and sophomores Kristy Lewis and Kristine Jacklin. Coach Benjamin was very pleased with the team's hard work and dedication and she feels that the future looks bright for the Panthers.

The boys' swim team proved itself to be tough competition despite the loss of several veteran state qualifiers. The team's winning season can be attributed to the talent and hard-work shown by each class.

The Panthers had a winning dual meet season taking first at County and second at the Sectional. The team's only losses were to the state champion Carmel Greyhounds and to state runner-up Anderson before going on to place 13th overall at the state meet.

Senior leadership proved to be a valuable asset to the relatively young team. Seniors Andy Bledsoe and David Goodrich led the 200 yd. events and the 100 yd. butterfly, with Bledsoe placing third in the 100 yd. fly at the state meet. Teammates Greg Pease and Ben Morrison won points in the 50 yd. freestyle and 100 yd. backstroke sprints. Mike Rosen excelled in the 100 yd. breaststroke and in rallying team spirit. Divers Andrew Waite and Geoff Foster proved to be a formidable duo as each would prove to be superior competition for all NC opponents which carried through to a fifth place finish for Waite at a very competitive state meet.

N.C.'s team strength was largely due to depth and speed found in junior and sophomore class swimmers. Junior Brian Powers and sophomore Brian Beck competed closely in the 200 yd. individual medley and 100 yd. breaststroke throughout the season. Powers ultimately broke the backstroke record after narrowly missing several times over the season. Junior Seth Ramsey and sophomore Chris McCrea led the team in all of the freestyle events ranging from the 50 yd. to 500 yd. freestyle.

Juniors led the team in the 100 yd. backstroke with Steve Hartsock holding top position closely followed by Aaron Willis. Junior Dan Fitterling not only showed his talent as a sprint freestyler, but also as the team's motivator. Sophomore Steve Jones' performances in the 100 yd. butterfly and freestyle events has coach Bill Powell optimistic for next year's season. Freshman divers Matt Sexton and Josh Ramsey continued North Central's superior edge as the duo dove well behind seniors Foster and Waite.

Coach Powell can look forward to another promising season next year with the return of so many talented individuals. Summer practice and conditioning will determine the Panther's success in '92.

NC places second in state

The cheerleaders had an extremely exciting year. The squads were greatly surprised at camp when both the varsity and freshman squads were asked to compete for the Award of Excellence. Although neither squad won the award, the varsity squad did win a bid to Nationals.

The squads worked together again in December when they competed as one squad in the Indiana Pacers State Cheerleading competition. The talent of the freshmen added a large amount to the varsity's routines. The squad placed second and was very happy with its performance.

This year the cheerleaders added a new touch to NC's athletic contests. They used large signs and other crowd involvement activities to help cheer the teams on. These activities were instrumental in helping bring, as Dr. White says, "the spirit back to North Central."

As a whole the year was very enjoyable for all of the girls who participated. The squads were both very proud of their accomplishments and can't wait until next year.

Just For Fun!

Intramurals provide the excitement of sports for anyone

-by Scott McConnell

Tired of sitting at home and watching T.V. after school? Too poor to play poker with the guys (after all, who does homework at 7 p.m.?) Well, a large number of NC students found alternatives to these activities by participating in intramural athletics. North Central sponsors two extremely popular intramural sports, bowling and basketball.

The bowling league met every Tuesday at Nora Bowl for competition among the four member teams. The competition was fierce, but the teams were secure in the knowledge that winning wasn't everything. The bowling season ended with The Big Daddy Rollers defeating the Sixteen Pound Balls for the league championship.

Basketball was divided into three leagues, A, B and C. Each team was placed in regard to its members' grades and abilities. Teams like The Chairmen of the Boards, Bustin Glass and Them met twice a week in round-robin play. At the end of the regular season, the teams were seeded by record and a tournament was conducted to determine the league championship. Runnin' Things won the A league, Six Men and a Little Boy were victorious in B league and Zero Gravity captured the C league title. Although not every team finished with a winning record, everyone enjoyed the experience.

THE YEAR IN SPORTS: A

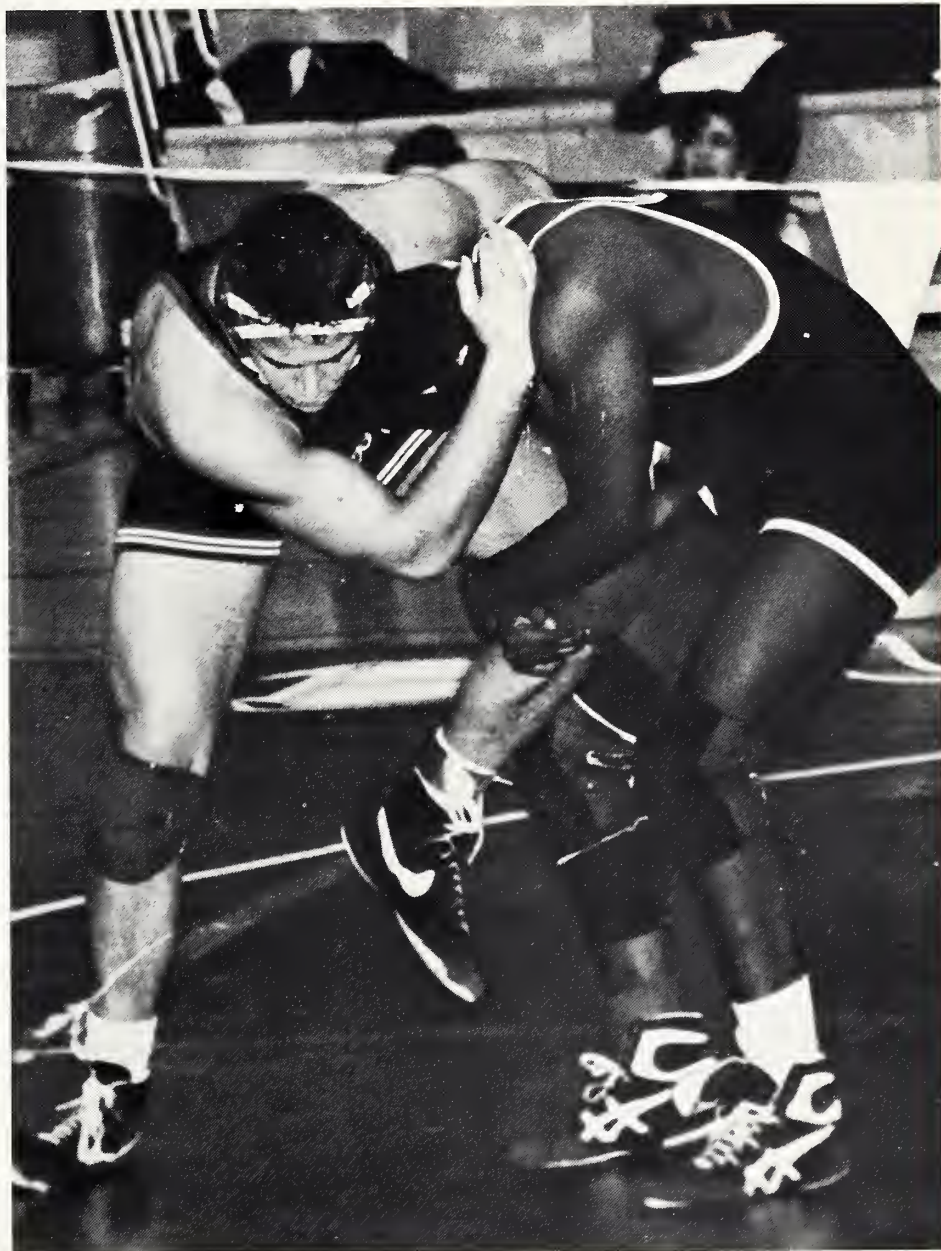

-by Ryan Bruce
and Scott McConnell

Blood, sweat and tears — The three tangible qualities that every sport have in common. While the athletes of NC have a variety of backgrounds, none of that really matters once each competitor hits the field, gym or course. The majority of the students at NC spend their summers relaxing and have the luxury of leaving the school grounds at 3:00, however the men and women that participate in various sports arrive early in the morning, stay late after school, give up their weekends, and give that extra effort during the summer to make themselves and their teams the very best they can be. Even when they didn't come out on top, they showed no shame in defeat, and on those many occasions that each was victorious, they won with class, never losing sight of that old, worn out word which sees all through the thick and thin — PRIDE.

All the triumphant moments preserved throughout this section would not have been possible without the cooperation of the photographers. Often forgotten, these individuals were asked to put in almost as much time as the athletes themselves. The sports editors would like to give much thanks to these individuals — Andy Bledsoe, Matt Claymon, Adam Sharp and the rest of the photographers for making this section what it is.

Look at NC's finest!

STUDENT VOICES

The year was 1964, and even then clubs were a big part of North Central. Organizations such as the Stamp and Coin club or Future Nurses of America kept the students busy. The student and class councils worked hard to provide people with fun things to do. The Girls' Auto Mechanics Club studied carburetors, and members of the Transcription Club practiced their shorthand.

It is now 1991, and although the times are changing some things remain the same. The councils are still hard at work, but the Aquarium Club is no more. Model U.N. is still going strong, but the Model Railroad Club is a thing of the past. So no matter what the year, or what clubs NC has to offer, North Central students are getting involved.

Staying A Step Ahead

Student Council leads N.C.

-by Kristin Druckamiller

Along with our new principal came, of course, a new Student Council president, Aaron Pinkus. North Central had to deal with not one, but two new administrations! The year was heightened with events including Centrafest, do-rags, homecoming, carnation sales, the Panther post, environmental projects, and most of all, SCHOOL SPIRIT! Much was accomplished in terms of constitutional amendments and more efficient ways of electing members, which will help in years to come.

When asked what she thought of Student Council in the school year of '90-'91 as compared to the past three years, Secretary Kyla Guenin stated, "I think the most apparent change is the attitude of the student body as a whole. Everyone on council has been really excited."

Student Council and school spirit are on the upswing now and many are excited, including Treasurer Scott McConnell. He commented, "Student Council this year had tremendous opportunities to become more influential in school affairs with the new administration. Although there were some problems early on, I think the council has been very instrumental in promoting school spirit through its activities and the sale of Panther paraphernalia."

It just goes to show how some things never change. Student Council has always played an important part in the school, and this year is no exception.

Plan for Progress

Junior and Senior Councils

-Jill Smith

With Senior Class President Scott Tittle and Junior Class President Tom Hadley, this year's junior and senior class councils have all the talent and experience they need. They have had to plan the year's events, organize the bits and pieces of information needed to have a successful occasion, and most of all keep control over their councils during the meetings.

The senior class council had a very productive year. They had many events to plan including the Senior Bonfire, the Senior Blood Drive, the infamous Senior Slop Day, and last but not least, Grad Dance. They selected graduation announcements and participated in the Homecoming festivities. All of the members were enthusiastic and dedicated to this year's events to make this a year to remember.

In addition to the seniors, the junior class council also had a very rewarding year. They were responsible for their own class t-shirts, Junior Spectacular, and most importantly, Junior Prom. They participated in the Homecoming decorations and organized many more fun and exciting activities for the class of 1992.

These 25-member councils play a big part in the continuing tradition of excellence at North Central. The activities and events they plan are things that we will remember for years to come.

Councils Show Leadership

by Lynne Naus

Coming into North Central can be difficult and scary, but class council does its best to make things as easy as possible. Freshman Class Council, sponsored by Mr. Gaither, and Sophomore Class Council, sponsored by Mrs. Lanum, plan different activities to help the students get involved and make North Central more fun and interesting.

Mixers and parties are planned, along with different fundraisers. Sophomores have the responsibility of picking a class ring, while freshmen design a class shirt.

The twenty-five members are chosen within their class at the beginning of the year. Those elected then vote on their officers who organize the different activities.

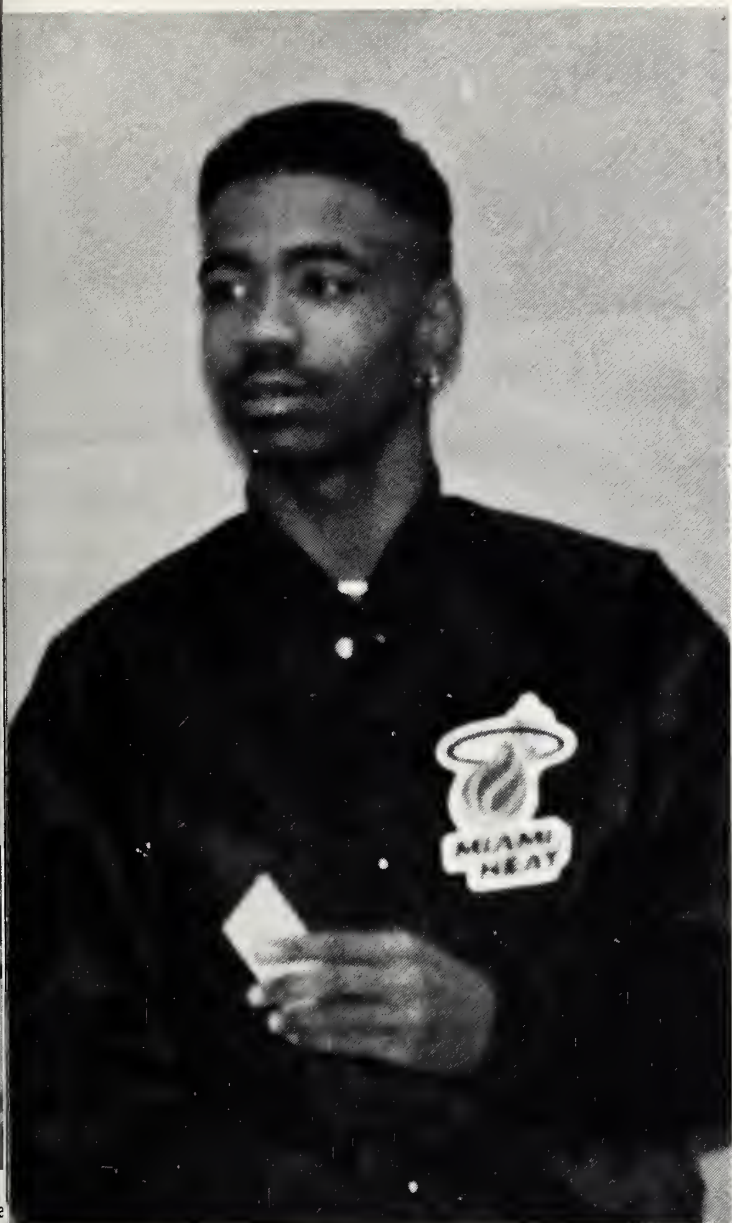

These two class councils help to unify their classes and bring the students together in a spirited and cooperative way.

NC Around the World

Model U.N. and Int'l Club

by Ali Bleecker

The clubs at North Central reach from both ends of the spectrum and to many colors in between. Two such clubs, Model United Nations and the International Club, have their own goals and achievements.

Model United Nations contained 77 students this year. Its director, Mr. Broderick, reflected on the workings of Model U.N. "We interact with other area high schools, propose resolutions for the purpose of solving current world problems, and negotiate with other states to pass them through various committees, the security council and the General Assembly." Basically, this program gives students the opportunity to work in groups to solve problems similar to that of the United Nations.

The International Club fills a needed void in the everyday lives of our students from abroad. It is a place where these students, so far from home, can congregate and feel a little closer to home. Also, it offers students the chance to get to know other cultures and make new friends. This bonus is a plus for all of the clubs at North Central.

ence Olympiad is a group of students compete in different events dealing with biology, chemistry, and physics. This is just one more example of North Central's wide variety of activities for any student to participate in.

Words are powerful instruments, and the Hoosier Spell Bowl, Debate Team, Etchings In Thought Board, Academic Decathlon, the Chess Club, and last but not least, the Brain Game team all use words and thoughts to their advantage.

The Hoosier Spell Bowl Team, sponsored by Mrs. Richardson, attends spelling bees where each member has to spell a certain number of words. The teams scoring the most points move on to a higher level.

The Etchings In Thought Board, although not really a club, is sponsored by Mrs. Libby. These students are chosen to be on the board for their writing talent and insightful ability. Once on the board, the students review stories, poems and other creative writing. They choose those pieces that they feel can be put into a book. This yearly book is an award winning piece of literature that demonstrates the creativity and talent of our students here at North Central.

words in speech instead of on paper. These members demonstrate their intelligence and ability to speak in a persuasive way. The team, sponsored by Mr. Fruits, always has a winning season and is looked up to by many schools in the state.

The Academic Decathlon, winning second in the state, practiced many hours to advance as far as they did. This organization requires that each member give two speeches, one prepared and the other impromptu.

Mr. Konkle sponsors the Chess Club and these members actively play against themselves and other schools. Although relatively small, the group has a lot of spirit and a good attitude.

The Brain Game team, sponsored by Mr. Wiggins, is a small organization of students who use their minds to compete against other teams on the Brain Game Show.

The Northerner sends its heartfelt congratulations to all of these teams, members and sponsors.

Talking In Tongues

Foreign Languages

by Lynne Naus

For those students who enjoy foreign language, there are different clubs that meet and partake in activities related to that particular language. The Spanish Club, sponsored by Senora Miller and Senor Schaff, meet, speaking in Spanish of course, and plan parties and movies to watch. The French, German and Hebrew Club do the same. The Chinese Club even took a field trip to a Chinese restaurant and then to the Convention Center, where there was a Chinese festival taking place. The French Club is sponsored by Mr. Screes and Mr. Scwabb is the sponsor of the German Club.

Any student who has interest in these languages and is currently enrolled in one of the classes can participate. They are fun, educating and a great way to meet people.

Honors for Excellence

Nat. Honor Society

National Honor Society Members

National Honor Society Members

by Scott McConnell

National Honor Society is an organization for members of the student body who are both leaders in the classroom and academically talented. Members must be juniors or seniors who have maintained a 3.2 cumulative grade point average and have at least four merits. An induction ceremony is held each year during Recognition Night.

The National Honor Society's main activity is a peer-tutoring program. President Ayanna Maharry feels that this program benefits both the tutors and the students they instruct because, in addition to providing instruction for students who are struggling, it also gives members of the Society an opportunity to share their knowledge.

National Honor Society also provides a rallying ground for students with similar interests. The Society's other activities include the selling of T-shirts, a booth at Central Fest and a forum for how to improve North Central.

Language Honors

by Ali Bleecker

In order to graduate, two years of a foreign language must be completed. This is only the minimum requirement, though, and many students at North Central take a foreign language for all four years. Such dedicated scholars should never go unnoticed, and so, there are honor societies for which exemplary students can be appointed by their teacher.

Each language, French, German and Spanish, is difficult and complex, requiring extensive study and effort from the student in order to excel. Not only is it necessary to be able to read and write in these unfamiliar languages, but all the students in these courses must have some ability to speak the language with some amount of an acceptable accent.

The students who consistently perform at or above the standards set by their teachers are most likely those appointed to the honor society of their language. Not only does this appointment give the student a feeling of accomplishment, but the honor is a definite advantage to any transcript. Also, the certificate of recognition is a nice addition to a scrapbook or collection of high school memories. The yearbook staff extends it's warmest congratulations to all of the students appointed to these societies.

Active Participation!

BSU plays big role

by Kristin Druckamiller

During the past year the Black Student Union has continued to play an active role in North Central student life. It has emphasized goals for itself, including the recognition of black culture, the importance of black history and the easing of racial tensions within the school as well as the community.

The Black Student Union has encouraged the entire student body to have a greater recognition and appreciation of black history month by keeping the student body aware of the many contributions of black culture to the United States.

The students involved in Black Student Union continue to focus on solving immediate problems around the school. The entire student body is encouraged to become involved in increasing awareness of the great history of blacks in America.

The club continues to fulfill its goals and to ease any racial tension at North Central High School.

Helping Others

By Involvement. . .

by Lynne Naus

Through involvement and helping the school and community, Key Club members devote their time and effort to others. The club becomes involved in several activities and projects throughout the year.

The most important project they organize is the Can Drive. The club encourages competition and contests between homerooms and grade levels. This year, again, the can drive was a great success. Although the Can Drive is one of their biggest projects, they also organize other events. Because of their willingness to participate and desire to help others, the Key Club aids the community in many ways.

The Junior Historical Society, sponsored by Mr. Goulde, is a club that stimulates Indiana history among students here at North Central. The club researches different topics dealing with Indiana and North Central High School. Such topics could be athletes or governors, then the information is shown in a slide and tape demonstration.

Armed and Ready

For Skills in Life

-Lynne Naus

With all the new policies and changes in North Central, one organization stands its ground as an opportunity to get ahead. JROTC provides students the chance to receive important leadership qualities and a jump on training for the armed forces. They can be joined by anyone interested in learning valuable organizational, leadership and disciplinary skills.

In JROTC, Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps, members participate in marksmanship, drills, ceremonies and classroom activities. In the classroom they focus on the history of the military along with several other areas. Experienced senior members teach their younger peers, another unique aspect of the JROTC program.

There are four different clubs related to the class: Drill Team, Color Guard, Recondo and Rifle Team. Because of groups like these, many graduates that enter the armed forces can start at a higher level. The organization is run by Colonel Hallinan, who feels that it encourages the students to be good Americans.

At North Central, students can do much more than just "book learning," they can learn things that will apply to life after high school. With the help of programs like JROTC, they can get a head start on the real world.

Beware of the DDD!

-Rachel Wolfe

Always in the back of our minds, it is something we know we have to do. It pierces every waking moment, hanging over our head like a dark cloud. Is it a bird? A plane? Superman? No, it's the Dreaded Deadline Doom.

The DDD is just one of the obstacles encountered by the staffs of The Northerner and The Northern Lights. The staffs of these two student-run publications work not just during class, but during free time and over the summer to get the yearbook and newspaper out on time.

Work on The Northerner starts over the summer, when some staff members go to the High School Journalism Institute at IU. After one full week of lectures, workshops, articles and layouts, those who went came out from HSJI knowing a lot more about journalism, Chi-Chi's Mexican Buffet and rubber cement. Once the school year starts, they apply that knowledge to overcome such problems as proofs, blue lines and the evil musical note virus.

Staff members of The Northern Lights work with the Career Center Print Shop to put out a paper every two weeks. Reporters and photographers are sent out to cover school and township activities. Says sports writer Shannon Denny, "It's not as easy as everybody thinks. Between writing articles, getting pictures and doing layouts, we often run right down to the wire before finishing an issue."

It takes long hours of writing, typing and cropping pictures to overcome the DDD. But when we have the final product in our hands, it's all worth it.

OPENING NIGHT

It was elementary school, and already our talent for performing arts was starting to show. We played recorders, ukeleles and autoharps, sang songs like "Tubby the Toad" and "Fifty Nifty United States", and performed in such stage productions as "Barber of Seville" and "Barnum and Bailey's Circus".

Now after countless lessons, recitals and rehearsals, we have accepted more challenging roles both on stage and off. From Handel's "Messiah" to gospel music to Paula Abdul medleys, our choirs perform a variety of selections. The drama department has progressed to famous Broadway musicals like "The Pajama Game". World-famous Carnegie Hall was the stage last April for the North Central Symphony Orchestra, which performs original works by composers such as Saint-Saens and Mozart.

Over the years, there have been changes in the instruments we play, the music we sing, and the plays we perform. And our ability to change with the times has made the North Central Performing Arts department one of the finest and most recognized in the state.

Rehearsing for the upcoming symphony concert, cellists Sara Kim and Ellen Wu concentrate on their music.

"Ask Any Girl"

Holly Gregory rattles off statistics about life in the big city.

"Ask Any Girl" is a romantic comedy about a young girl who starts out on her own in New York City. Meg Wheeler (Holly Gregory) lives in a small town with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler (Pat Wanzer and Monica Strom), her Aunt Fern (Sara Bader), and Aunt Lette (Elizabeth Phelps). Against their old-fashioned concerns and beliefs, she sets off for New York to live in the Madison Avenue Girls' Hotel. The switchboard operator Ada (Allison Walters), the aspiring actress Lisa (Petra Wiehe), the constantly dieting Jeannie (Jen Brown), Ruby (Amber Harrison) and Heidi (Lesley Meier) quickly befriend Meg and start to teach her the ropes of living in a big city. They are all looking for husbands and tell Meg about the bleak prospects they've encountered in the city. Then, the advertising firm of Daughton and Daughton come to test flavors of cigarettes in the hotel. The two delivery men, Vince (Brad Trolson) and Alvin (Randy Moorman) flirt with the girls as they are ordered around by Terri (Katie Herron), who is Mr. Daughton's assistant. The girls tell Meg that the two Daughton brothers are good-looking eligible bachelors, and working for either would be quite a prize. However, the brothers are quite different in personality. Evan (Chris Daniels) is fun loving, irresponsible, and a definite ladies' man, while Miles (David Polick) is more down to earth. Meg fights Miles' intimidating stance and is immediately hired by Evan in a chance introduction. Meg proceeds to do a wonderful job in the firm and takes over all of Evan's work. Miles, acting as responsible older brother, then fires Meg so that Evan will learn to work. Meg wants a marriage proposal out of Evan and hires Miles to help her package herself in a way that will make Evan love her. Meanwhile, romance is blooming between Vince and Ada and Jeannie and Alvin. As Miles dresses and teaches Meg, they slowly fall in love without realizing it until Evan asks Meg to marry him. Meg's family comes for a visit in time to hear Meg and Miles's engagement announcement. Evan bounces back quickly from his rejection and begins to flirt with the two new tenants of the hotel, Ellen (Ellen Wu) and Jane (Kristin Kasper). And as in all fairy-tale love stories, it ends happily ever after — with a wedding.

Repertory Theatre

Lights, camera, action! The curtain goes up, scenery rolls on, and the performance begins. None of this would happen on the NC stage if it weren't for the ideas and talent of Repertory Theatre.

This year, Repertory Theatre has taken on a challenge and a change. Rep coordinator Mr. Lineback has accepted two troupes of Rep students instead of his normal single troupe, and has doubled his acting staff.

In the winter of 1990, Repertory Theatre put on a children's production entitled "Once Upon A Shoe". Each troupe put on their own performance of this show. They also took the show on the road to numerous elementary schools throughout the winter season.

But Rep Theatre isn't just a place to get up and goof off on stage. Many "Reppies" find it a place to release pent-up emotions. "You can get up and express yourself in front of others," says senior Chad Abrams. And Jenn Hubbs adds, "It breaks the stress from the day." They also perform in the Fine Arts Festival, displaying their talents before the whole school.

During a Rep rehearsal, Monica Strom playfully prevents Amy Gerkensmeyer and Josh Prince from having a friendly dispute.

"Hurry Up! Hurry Up!" The place is the Sleeptite Pajama Factory, the time is 1952 and there's only one game in town. It's the "Pajama Game" and it's this year's fall musical, adapted from the novel by Richard Bissell.

The story centers around Babe (Jennifer Hubbs), a rebellious worker at the Sleep-tite Factory who falls in love with the new super-intendant, Sid (David Wald). Their relationship is put to the test when Babe leads her co-workers in a strike and Sid is forced to fire her. The two ultimately find that their love is more powerful, despite their disagreement.

Hines (Josh Prince) is the flamboyant manager who struggles throughout the play to keep his flirtatious girlfriend, Gladys (Monica Strom) away from her casa-nova co-worker, Prez (Chris Walson).

This production was enhanced by an excellent dance troupe and a superior cast. The adaptation of this musical comedy was performed by some of NC's finest talent.

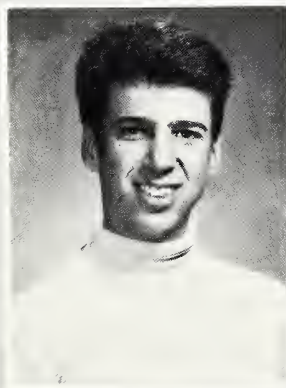

"She must be crazy!" Cast members of the "Pajama Game" exclaim as they watch Babe, played by Jennifer Hubbs, prepare to have a knife thrown at the apple resting on her head.

Sid (David Wald) and Babe (Jen Hubbs) learn that sometimes love is the one of the most difficult games to play, but they prove to each other that they have the desire to win.

Factory workers begin to get worried when Hines (Josh Prince) has a little too much to drink at his company picnic and decides to take on the up and coming sport of knife-throwing.

My favorite part of performing is..

Josh Prince

...making people laugh or smile. I like it when people in the audience have a good time along with me. That's the fun part of performing. It's something I have always enjoyed and hope to continue in the future. My favorite scene that I performed in The "Pajama Game" was the office scene when my pants were supposed to fall down. I was terrified every night because I was worried about how well it would go over. The first night it didn't go so well. On the second night it ran more smoothly, and by the third performance, we had the scene down pat. It was wonderful to hear the audience laugh and have fun with us.

THE PAJAMA GAME

Behind the scenes NC Stage Crew

The Stage Crew, under the direction of Mr. Lord, is a group of behind the scenes magicians who bring each set to life. Their responsibilities include building scenery, gathering props, moving sets, and working the light and sound boards. During scene changes, crew members dressed in black silently strike the props and sets. Both the actors and crew members work together to make a smooth production. Members who wish to be considered for the position of stage manager submit an application to Mr. Lord and the director. This job takes a lot of dedication and responsibility as he/she is the link between the actors and the crew members. Sitting on an elevated chair behind the scenes, the stage manager calls the cues during the shows. Stage Crew is not all work, making new friends adds to the fun and satisfaction of producing a play.

Flying colors

Performing colorful three minute half-time shows with flags and rifles, the Colorguard is working hard to bring spirit back to NC. The Corps raised money all year to be able to participate in the Apple Blossom Parade in Washington D.C. this past May. The Colorguard practices every day during a regular class period, as well as at occasional after school rehearsals. They perform with the marching band during football season and also for basketball season. Members of Colorguard learn difficult dance routines using flags and other props to enhance their performance.

Joyful sounds from the Counterpoints

Counterpoints is North Central's highly acclaimed show choir. Long hours of extra rehearsal and hard work has resulted in a quality of sound and a style that is unmatched. Last year the Counterpoints were state champions and enhanced their excellent reputation that is known in the school and community.

Directed by Mrs. Wiehe, the Counterpoints participate in many competitions and performances throughout the year, including the ISSMA Solo/Ensemble Contest, the holiday show and many others. In March they competed in Showstoppers, a national swing choir competition in Chicago.

As well as costumes, make-up and choreography, it's the talent and dedication of its performers that make the Counterpoints great.

How is King's Court different from NC's other choirs?

"The Kings' Court Singers are unique in that we sing mostly Renaissance and classical music. We work together very well. Every year we hold a Madrigal Dinner downtown. We wear our colorful costumes that fit the 17th century time period of our music."

-Stephanie Van Reken

"Throughout the year we have fun with our two major events, the Madrigal Dinner and the annual Kings Island trip. We also learn a lot about how to sing with the help of talented director, Mr. Carey. Our dedication to the group results in a great sound."

-Becky Peterson

Royal enchantment from King's Court

Among the many fine choirs which North Central's performing arts department boasts is one group which undoubtedly stands in a class by itself. The King's Court Singers, directed by Mr. Carey, are a very talented group of people who use their vocal and dramatic talents to represent North Central in a way different from that of any other choir. "Mr. Carey makes singing in King's Court a great experience," says junior Amy Cook. Unlike other choirs, King's Court is not a show choir, in that there is little dancing or choreography. It is rather a madrigal choir. Not only do these singers perform Mozart and Bach in Latin and English, but they also dress in the characteristic medieval costumes.

One of the most important events for the King's Court is the madrigal dinner. This annual program is the climax of the year and requires much time and dedication from all its participants. The dinner show portrays a renaissance feast. The singers of the King's Court enjoy the challenging and unique choir experience.

Singing on a new note with girls' choir

Thirty girls crowded into one small bathroom. While dressing in long, formal dresses and character shoes, laughter pours into the hallway. Lipstick is being applied and every hair put into place. This is a typical scene before a performance by one of NC's all girl choirs.

These four choirs, Descants, Girls' Ensemble, Rondos and Allegros, have all earned a reputation of excellence for our school. They represent NC throughout the city by performing for elementary and middle schools, churches and private functions. They also compete at various competitions where NC choirs always perform well. They also play an important role in the school holiday program and Fine Arts Festival.

Acceptance into one of these top choirs is by audition only, but everyone is welcome and encouraged to try-out. Classes focus on vocal technique and public performing. As well as singing, choreography and dramatic ability are an important part of choir. "Being in choir has made my year great. I've met a lot of new people that I never would have met. It's also improved my singing which is important to me," says Allison Walters. Participation in choir helps in every aspect of performing and is a fun experience at the same time.

NC choirs reaching for nothing but the best

There's no doubt about it, the choirs at North Central are many in number and superb in quality. The NC performing arts department gives all students a chance to be a part of a choir. A variety of groups are available to choose from including the Madrigals, Music Men, Handbell Choir, and NC's newest choir, the Northernaires.

The Madrigals, a beginning girls' choir, was one of the first choirs at North Central, while Music Men is open only to boys. Handbell Choir gives students a chance to make beautiful music with the help of instruments.

The Northernaires is the newest addition to the performing arts department. Directed by Mr. Carey, this new choir sings predominantly gospel music, although they also do some pop music. "We've come a long way since the beginning of the year," says member Nyree Lane. The Northernaires have performed at several middle schools to encourage future singers and increase interest in their choir. Next year will be the last year that freshman will be accepted into the choir. After that, it will be exclusively upper classmen. This exciting new choir added variety and a new sound this year to our choir department.

All four of these talented choirs participate in the annual Holiday Program and Fine Arts Festival, as well as individual community performances.

The choirs of North Central are competitive, but more important, they are fun in a different kind of learning atmosphere. They give students a chance to meet new people with the same interests. Choir also gives students excellent experience in performing and builds self-confidence, which can be valuable in the future.

State champion symphony orchestra Makes Carnegie Hall debut

The North Central Symphony Orchestra continued its status quo of excellence, winning the state championship for the second straight year and giving many exciting performances along the way.

For 26 years in succession, the NC Symphony has received superior ratings in Group I competition, a streak unmatched by any other high school. North Central also had ten musicians, many "repeat performers," chosen for the

All-State Orchestra.

Orchestra is much more than a class that meets for an hour and then is forgotten for the next 23. Somehow it manages to sneak itself into every aspect of its members' lives and becomes something not easily forgotten. Throughout the course of nine months, the 86 members washed cars, sold tickets, bashed old trucks and lugged boxes of M&M's to school to raise money for the Carnegie Hall trip. But besides the fund raising and rehearsals, each individual has his or her own special memories, ranging from the moment they walked on stage at Carnegie Hall to the pause between "Third place — Elkhart" and "Second place — Carmel" (meaning "First place — North Central!") at the state finals. These experiences amounted to much more than a few dollars to cover the trip's expenses — they created a store of emotional memories that will last for years to come.

Timing is everything for band & orchestra

Teamwork doesn't apply to athletics alone. It is an essential part of music production as well. The freshman and concert bands and orchestras can certainly attest to that. Freshman groups learn the fundamentals of music and develop their ability to play a variety of musical instruments. Each year all of the musical groups work hard putting together shows to be performed here at North Central and in the surrounding community.

Performing for elementary and middle schools, our talented musicians are an inspiration for younger students wishing to develop musical ability at the high school level. Contests are also an important part of the band and orchestra experience. All of these groups practice long hours to achieve the great sounds we love to hear!

North Central Marching Panthers

To the beat of a different drummer It's showtime for NC's best

Contrary to popular belief, Jazz Band is not always an easy "A". Not only must one audition for the band, it is also necessary to attend summer school to learn the basics of stage band theory. Representing some of the most talented musicians at NC, the band performs at basketball games, Winter Pops and the Fine Arts Festival.

Under the direction of Samuel Rhinesmith, the Symphonic Wind Ensemble performs in the annual Winter Pops concert, Fine Arts and also played in a special concert at Clowes Hall. It is necessary for one to audition for entrance into NC's Wind Ensemble so that it is a dedicated and hard-working group.

The Marching Band can be seen during home football games at halftime. Under the direction of Mr. Perry, practice begins in the summer for these dedicated students and continues through the season.

Thanks to all of these devoted performing arts students, spirit is making a welcome comeback at North Central.

CHANGING

FACES

Meeting people. This is just one of the many advantages of attending a school as large as North Central. For a freshman entering this high school for the first time, North Central may seem overwhelming. With such a large number and huge diversity of students, the freshman may feel like he or she can never adjust to the endless sea of changing faces. Attending the first day of high school can be extremely intimidating, especially since most of the other students are unfamiliar. By the time these students become upperclassmen, many of these faces will become familiar ones. By taking advantage of the many activities and opportunities existing at North Central, one can not help but meet new people every day.

Your Voice

What privilege do you wish seniors had?

- open campus — 81%
- Come to school late instead of getting out at two
- Have a week where the underclassmen are our servants
- Permission to go to the front of the 6th period lunch line-everyday
- Senior honor code

CLASS OF

Junior Spec

Endless practicing, elaborate costumes, and hours of preparation; Junior Spectacular is one of the activities most looked forward to in the life of a junior. This year included everything from cereal box characters to actual Spec writers trying to find an idea for their act.

"If the Price is Right", written by Chris Ley, Michelle Freckleton and Madelyn Kriplen, centers around a couch potato who wants to be like the people on TV, when he is tempted by the devil until his guardian angels steps in to try and save him.

"Prospects Down Under", written by Nick Eble, Walker Lockhart and Laura Howald, is about four juniors who go into the N.C. basement to find ideas for their Junior Spec act by looking at old props. While there, they find out many things about North Central's past.

"In All Cerealness", written by Lisa Weinstein, Tracy Eltzroth and Joe Stimming, is about cereal box characters and the discovery that the prizes from their boxes are missing. The act centers around the search for the guilty character.

"The Best of Both Worlds", written by Josh Prince, Amy Gerkensmeyer and Holly Gregory, is an adventurous story involving mixed up plots, an unusual hero and a satirical romance. While two stories are being read, a conflict arises when some of the characters get into the wrong stories and pandemonium breaks out.

Try and do that! The dancers in Best of Both Worlds are obsessed with dancing in their unique dance choreographed by Josh Prince.

Get up and do something! The football players try to get Ralph the couch potato (Ward Poulos) to stop watching t.v. and go to practice.

Is Spectacular!

In All Cerealness! Amy Marsh is busting her moves on Mike Goldberg as Dan Huff and Tracy Eltzroth admire each others' beauty.

Go team, Go! The spirit dancers in Prospects Down Under try to arouse some school spirit, just like we're trying to do here at N.C.!

SOPHOMORES '93

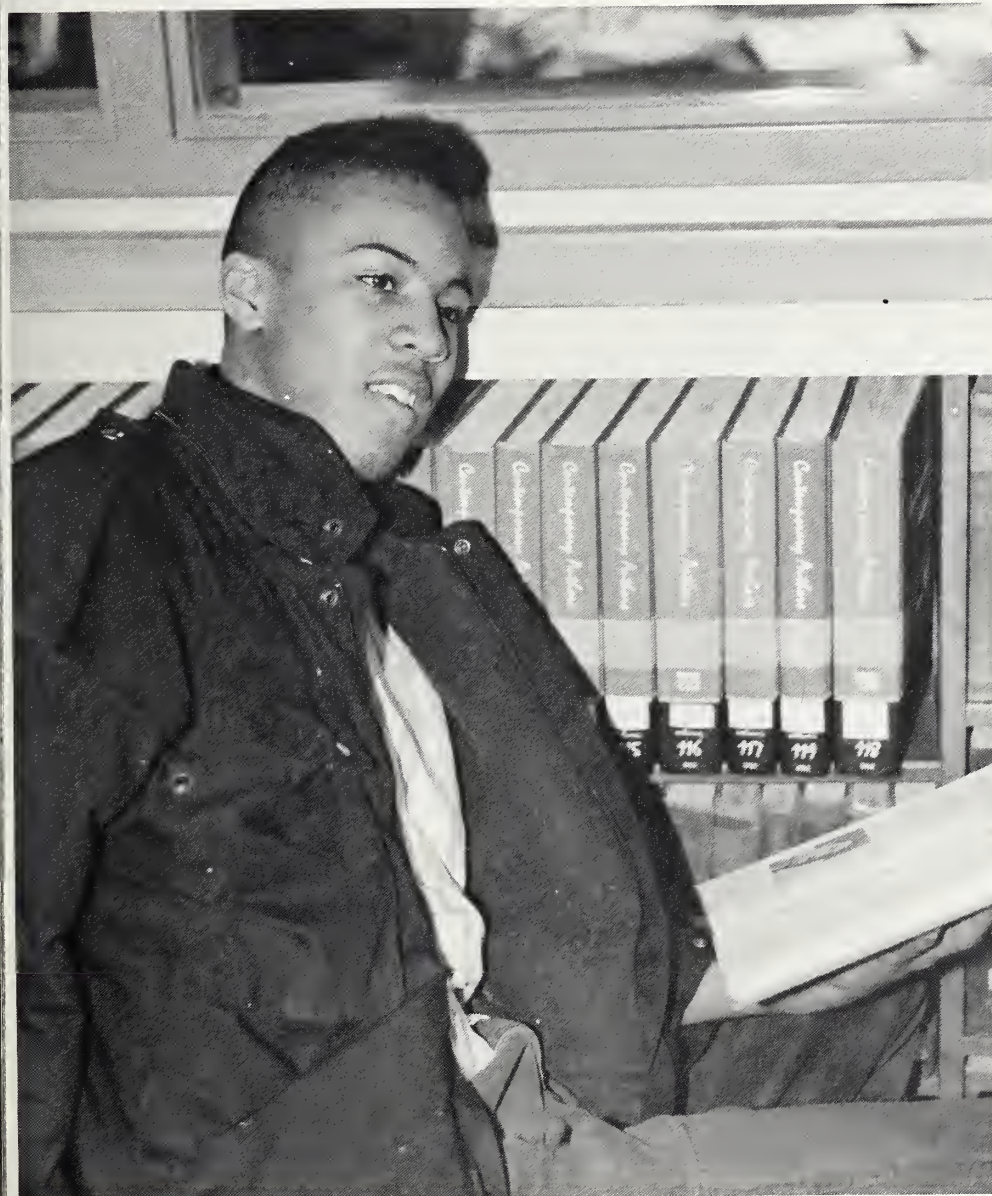

Ask anyone at North Central what the best thing is about being a sophomore and most will say, "A drivers license!" It's true that being able to drive is one of the more anticipated and most talked about events for 10th graders, but certainly not the only one.

For many, this is a chance to fit in with the rest of the student body. As freshmen we tend to feel isolated and left out of certain activities, but it all seems to come together sophomore year. The nervous excitement that comes with the possibilities of pledging clubs, driving and meeting people brings a new sense of unity to the sophomore class.

Most would agree unity makes a class. This year we were lucky to have a new principal which gives sophomores a chance to, "test the waters." Remembering back to last year, comparing it to this one; Sophomores will be the ones who reflect the changes of North Central in the years ahead. And with Dr. White leading the way, the class of 1993 is sure to have a bright future!

Did you sterilize that safety pin Carly? Bored in the library, Carly Bates attempts to pierce her nose with her enlarged safety pin.

Freshman year is a year most students never forget. It is the year when freshmen are rudely awakened at the crack of dawn to arrive at school, (via the twinkie) by 7 a.m.; it is the year when freshmen live in fear of being asked to buy an elevator pass and get to class on time while trying to find their way through our many alphabetically arranged halls.

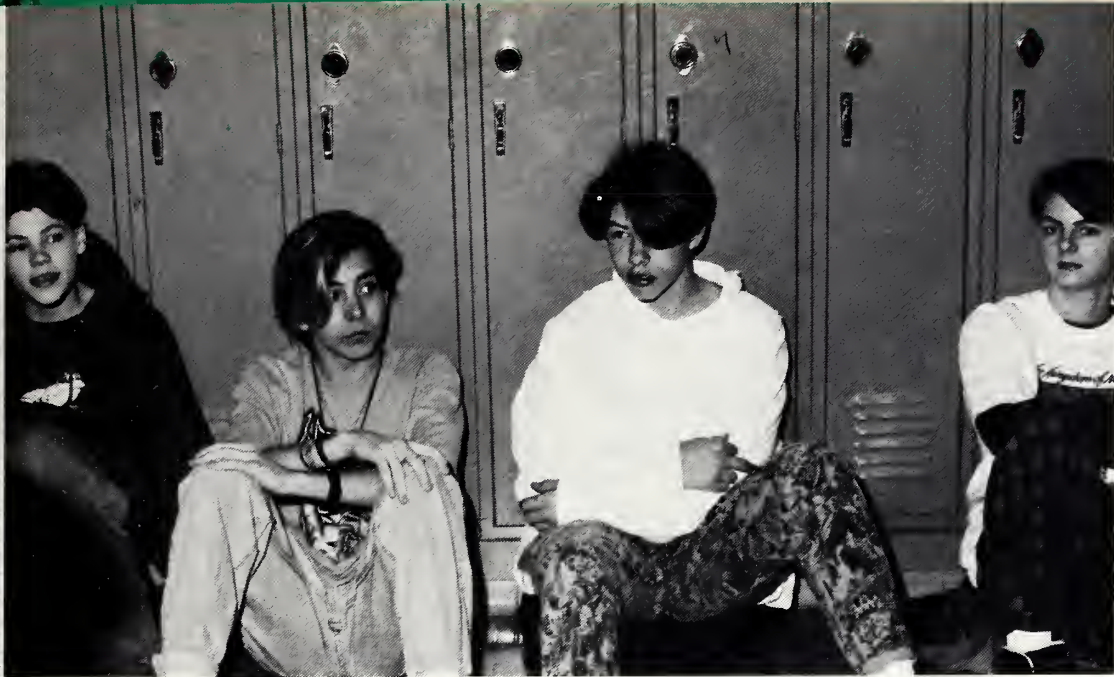

But, as well as being challenging, freshman year is also the year in which new friends are made and getting into the whole scheme of things begins. Freshmen find out that high school can actually be enjoyable. And just what do freshmen enjoy about North Central?

"Choosing classes." (Vanessa Elhancer) "The options with classes and the people." (Aaron Glaze)

By the end of the year, freshmen have found their special place within the walls of North Central High School. They can sit back, relax and look forward to next year when they, as sophomores can look on the new class of freshmen and rejoice that it's not them.

BUYING SPREE

Shopping is something we all must do whether it is by choice or not. We shop with friends, alone, or with our parents. Sometimes we even get dragged along. No matter where or with whom we shop, we all need one thing. . . money. On our shopping sprees we buy clothes, stereo equipment, cars, food and often anything we touch. Guys tend to check out the girls at the mall, stroll through the sporting goods and play with the gadgets at The Sharper Image. Girls smell the perfumes, model the prom dresses and eat at Luca's pizza. As teens, we take more responsibility in paying for our own needs from dates to gas for the car. However, getting a job increases our buying power at the expense of other things like grades, sleep and free time.

BSU

BSU, North Central's own Black Student Union, is a very important addition to the many extra-curricular activities which the school has to offer. This organization, which is open to any NC student, not only gives its members a sense of identity, but also an opportunity to take on leadership roles. During this 1990-91 school year, BSU, with Jana Matthews as president, has been very busy. Dr. White has been extremely helpful in assisting the group to organize activities for Black History Month, including a display in the library and a talk to the student body.

Colophon

The thirty-fifth edition of the Northerner was printed by Newsfoto Publishing Company of San Angelo, Texas. Dick Kennard served as our Newsfoto representative.

The laminated lithograph cover is jade #20 with black #1 applied.

All 256 pages are enamel, 23 of which are in four process color. There was a press run of 1680 copies. The type style was Athena with 10 point body copy, 8 point captions, 8 point picture panels and scoreblocks, and 24 point folio tabs with 12 point lettering. Each section editor chose his own headline style.

Photography for seniors and underclassmen was handled by Prestige Studio. All other pictures in this book were provided by staff photographers, members of the student body and the Visual Sports Network of Indianapolis.

Where's the beef? Lisa Jurgonski demonstrates her culinary talents.

Diane

Well, we did it! There were times I honestly didn't think that we would actually get this book out. You definitely kept me from going completely insane. Let's go to Bates-I think our, um, graph paper supply is a little low. For the rest of my life I will scream at the sight of a musical note. Let's hope that there isn't a riot when people see the color of this book!

Rachel

There is not a squirrel in that trash can! Thank you for being the designated deadline nagger. You handled all the stress a lot better than I did and I really appreciated it. Universe man! We are MTV stars. Oh no! It's a volcano drill!

Ali

No matter what Rod

says, I like your section! What will we do without Louie's mints in French? If you don't become a professional yearbook editor (which I know is your ultimate goal in life) you can always be a color-analyst! Taillez la pepe!

Ryan

Let me start by saying I apologize for all the times I screamed at you. You really are great because not only did you get the entire boys' sports section done, but you also survived World Lit! You are the best pizza smuggler!

Scott

Yes, it's me, the yearbook Goddess. I will never, ever, in this lifetime drive a station wagon of any kind especially one with wood on the sides! Never be a fortune teller. Girls' sports looks great. Congratulations on conquering the 'layout from Hell'!

Jill

I'll never forget your first layout when you looked up at me and said, "What does 'crop' mean?" Now you are an expert! I sympathize because I know how difficult and annoying album can be, but it looks fantastic! (Especially without that picture of the girl sticking a pin through her nose!)

Lynne

Hi, Nerd! I never saw you all year, but maybe I planned it that way! Just kidding! Even though we had to communicate through notes on each others' bulletin boards you did great! See ya at Miami!

Joanna

Hey, fellow commercial star! De-Hy! So 'How is academics doing?' I know I nagged you every single day so thanks for putting up with it! You really should study crayon art at the Art Institute. Let's have breakfast at Taco Bell! You are the only one who knows my true identity-I am Debbie Gibson!

Kelly

Surprise! You are Performing Arts editor! You handled the shock well. Performing Arts really came together, even though it wasn't until the final deadline! Stop bringing pictures of me as an evil child!

Molly

World Traveller! How is Fabian? Congratulations on being the very first editor to turn a page in!

You and Shea can eat McDonalds out of my desk drawer any time!

Lisa

Get that gravel out of your knee! You have to stop robbing gas stations! How is Penelope? Well, I'm sorry that you had this responsibility dumped on you this semester but you did great! You are my official M&M dealer. We must go to Chicago some time, really!

Adam

Even though I rarely saw you actually take a picture, you delegated assignments well. Thanks for all the bagels and have fun at I.U.! "There is to be no eating in the yearbook office this year." -Yeah, right!

Dave

This was a great year for you! Not only did you take some pictures, but you also learned how to print! Stay away from Eastwood from now on, O.K.? Thanks for keeping me warm!

Matt

My long lost cousin! I hereby state that every picture in this book without photo credit was taken by M. Claymon. Take care of my fish and don't let me near any walls or garage door openers!

Andy

I don't know how you did it but you managed to stay calm in the midst of everyone elses' chaos. I never saw you get stressed about anything, ever!! I need to take lessons!

Dipti

I don't care what everyone says, I loved your water fountain pictures all over the dark-room! You got dumped on with a lot of weird assignments but you never complained, at least not to me! Good luck next year!

Debby

Don't let those other photographers push you around- don't worry, they'll be gone next year. Thanks for everything!

And an extra special thanks to . . .

Mr. Kennard without whom this book would not exist.

Heidi Cullison who drew all the section divider headlines. Thank you so much!

And of course Mr. Cord who stood by us even when it looked like there was no hope and made sure that we weren't wearing purple socks!

Chipmunk 1,2,3 and 4. Jenny Kinney, Lisa Leander, Julie Schuster, Laura Rowe, and Lee Ann Haynes see who can stuff the most marshmallows in at once.

It is the scrambled periodic table. Will these elements find their places?

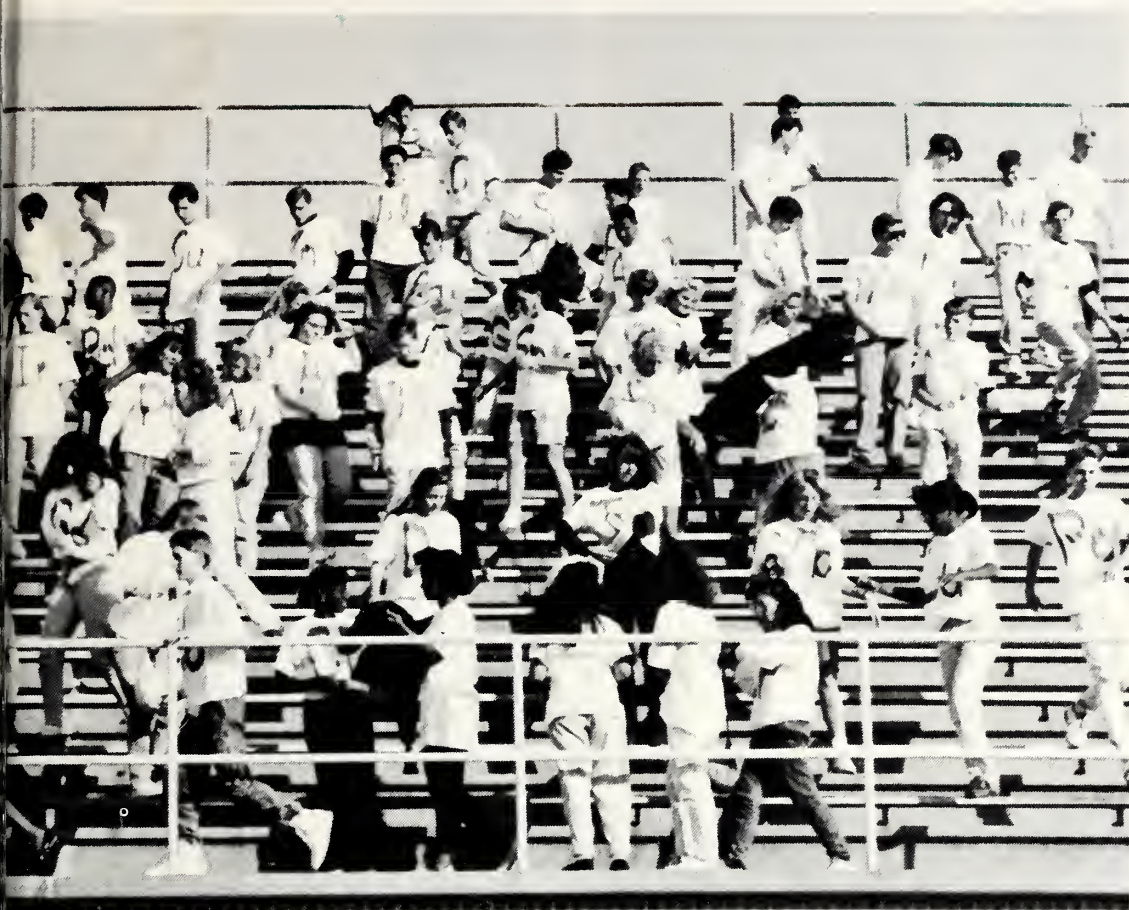

Latest fashion from Paris? Steve Hunt, J.B. Hall and Rob Gould are ready to hit the town sporting ties and boxers.

Brett Lewis pulls three home-room pals back from the can drive.

Have no fear, freshmen Jay Erne and Scott McKenzie make an art out of chopping carrots.

It's what friendship is all about. Chrisi Pierce and Ashley Taylor share a cookie.

Top Ten Things to do with Gum at School

10. Plug the spouts on the drinking fountains.
9. Use it to stick photos to the inside of your locker.
8. See if it really takes seven years to digest.
7. Stick it to the bottom of your milk carton so the lunch ladies can't pull it off.
6. Try to blow a double bubble.
5. Blow a bubble and attach it to your backpack.
4. Annoy your teacher, chew like a cow.
3. Use a string of gum to bungee dive off the student center balcony.
2. Put it under your desk for the next student to put his hand on.
1. Start a gum tree on campus.
